HIS REAL NAME IS DISCOVERED

Ed Sloan is None Other Than Edward Lingenfelder, Who is Implicated in Bigamy Case.

FAILS TO SECURE DIVORCE

Marries Local Woman, Taking it For Granted That First Wife Took Legal Proceedings.

That Edward Sloan of West First street is none other than Edward Lingenfelder was brought to light in Indianapolis when he was called to help straighten out the marriage tangle of Mrs. Lola Isaacs of Columbus, Ohio, and George A. Isaacs. Instead of clearing the situation, Lingenfelder or Sloan as he is known here only made matters worse and instead of only one bigamist there now appears to be three.

The trouble was started when Mrs. Lola Isaac, George Isaacs' first wife appeared in Indianapolis and had her husband arrested on a bigamy charge. The second Mrs. Isaacs turned out to be Lingenfelder's first wife and neither had secured a divorce before remarrying. So far Isaacs is the only one charged with bigamy.

Sloan, or Lingenfelder, which is his real name, is employed at the I. & C. car barns and has been in this city probably two years. He has always gone under the name of Sloan and was married to Barbara Brown under this name. The licenses were not secured here but they have resided here since their marriage. Although Lingenfelder is guilty of bigamy, he claims it was not intentional as he believed his wife had secured a divorce. The second Mrs. Isaacs, who was Lingenfelder's first wife thought he had secured a divorce, while Isaacs believed his first wife dead.

The situation is a peculiar one and caused quite a mix-up. Lingenfelder left here Sunday evening, being called to Indianapolis. He returned last night and is again working at the car barns. He will make an effort to get out of the difficulty and avoid the criminal end of the case. It is his intentions to file suit here for divorce from his first wife, the present Mrs. Isaacs and if successful will then remarry his present wife, thus complying to the legal side of the case. The divorce proceedings will probably be filed in a few days.

FIRST MEETING IS HELD

Parent-Teachers Club of Fairview School Hears Program.

The first meeting of the newly organized Parent-Teachers club of the Fairview school was held in the school house last night. An interesting program was rendered. A piano solo was given by Miss Doris Saxon, and an address was made by the president of the club, Prof. E. E. Jeffries. Mrs. Cora Saxon read a paper on "Home Training of the Child," and Irvin Harmer, second teacher in the Fairview school, led the discussion. The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday evening, November 19.

SCHMIDT ON A TRIP.

Newcastle Courier: The latest word from George Schmidt is that he has left Detroit for a short trip before going to a Boston conservatory of music, where he will study this winter. Mr. Schmidt left for Boston by the way of Buffalo and will visit Niagara Falls and New York for a week or ten days before going on to Boston.

SHE ASKS $6000 ALIMONY

Blanche Cassidy Files Suit For Divorce From John Cassidy.

Blanche Cassidy has filed suit for divorce from her husband, John T. Cassidy and demands $6000 alimony. Cassidy is a wellknown farmer of Noble township. Mrs. Cassidy alleges that he is an habitual drunkard and makes this the basis of the complaint. She sets out that his estate is worth $12,000 and asks $6000 as her share. They have no children.

CORN HUSKER IS NOW COMPLETED

Several Tests This Fall Prove The Invention is Success Excepting Few Minor Changes

LOCAL MEN PERFECTED IT

After three years of labor and experimenting, it appears that the corn husking machine which has been invented, patented and built by local men, is almost perfect. It has been given several trials this fall, and with the exception of a few minor changes, it is now as it will be manufactured. There have been no breaks and the parts have held up well in the several tests.

The machine is drawn easily by two horses, mounted on its own trucks, and the machinery is propelled by a gasoline motor, which operates the snapping and husking roles and elevators. It husks the corn in good marketable condition and elevates it into wagon which is driven at its side at the rate of fifty to sixty bushels per hour.

The local men interested in its are Charles Younger, the inventor, and A. P. Walker and M. E. Newhouse. They are undecided as to how it will be manufactured, whether they will form a company and incorporate or have it manufactured by manufacturers who have expressed a desire to do so.

WATSON SPECIAL MAY NOT BE RUN

Shelbyville Republicans Dislike Idea Since He is Scheduled to Speak There Monday.

OTHER POLITICAL EVENTS

It is doubtful whether or not the special train will be run to Richmond next Saturday night when James E. Watson speaks there. Shelbyville Republicans are not very anxious to go since it has been announced that Mr. Watson will be in Shelbyville next Monday night. He will speak here before the close of the campaign but a number from here will likely go anyway. Mr. Watson spoke in Muncie last night.

Will M. Sparks and W. R. Jinnett speak at Shiveley's Corner Thursday night, and Mark Forkner of Newcastle, Chauncey Duncan of Greenfield and James K. Mason of Connersville will speak at Falmouth the same night.

Gurlef Jenesn, Bull Moose candidate for congress, will speak at the Coliseum Friday night, and will fill speaking dates in the county the next four days.

D. W. McKee and John D. Megee will make Democratic speeches at Glenwood tonight.

MACHINERY OF ELECTION MOVES

Local Commission Has Charge of Printing of County Ballots and Distribution of All.

TAKES PLACE NOVEMBER 2

Inspectors Have No Right to Delay Returns From Their Precincts Under The Law.

The election machinery in Rush county this fall will be in the hands of a commission composed of three men—County Clerk Vern Norris, who becomes a member by virtue of his office, Howard E. Barrett, representing the Democratic party, and E. B. Thomas, representing the Republican party.

It will be the duty of this commission to have charge of the printing, counting and sealing of the county ballots, and of the distribution of these and the state ballots and all other documentary election supplies to the inspectors throughout the county. It will also be the duty of the board to canvass the returns of the election and to certify the result of the same to the secretary of state.

The county ballots will be printed by the Republican Company, under the direct supervision of the election commissioners. The state ballots, which also contain the names of the candidates for presidential electors, will be printed at Indianapolis under the supervision of the state election commission. The state ballots will be sent to Clerk Norris about ten days before the election. The local commission will have charge of the counting of the state ballots and of the apportioning of them among the precincts.

The law defining the duties of election commissioners is stringent. It throws every possible safeguard around election supplies. The election commission must use every possible precaution to prevent any ballot escaping from its possession. The forms from which the ballots are printed must be closely watched while in use and must be torn down as soon as the requisite number of ballots have been printed. The supplies for every precinct must be put up by the commission, must be securely sealed and must be delivered only to the persons authorized to receive them.

It is assumed that the state ballot will contain six tickets—the Democratic, Republican, Prohibition, Progressive, Socialist and Socialist Labor. It is thought that the Rush county ballots will contain only five tickets—the Democratic, Republican, Prohibition, Progressive and Socialist. The law requires that the first and second places on the ballot shall be given to the Democratic and Republican tickets respectively. The order in which the other tickets shall be placed on the county ballot, it is understood, is optional with the election commissioners. The State election commission has placed the Prohibitionist third and Bull Moosers fourth on the State ballot. The local commission expected to decide the position of the three lower tickets today.

The three men who will comprise the Rush county election commission are all experienced in the work, having served in like capacity in many preceding elections. Rush county has never had a scandal growing out of the handling of election supplies in a general election. There has never been any question raised touching the regularity of the acts of the election commission. Once or twice there have been irritating delays in getting in the returns from certain precincts.

MAN AND 4 BOYS ARE SENT TO JAIL

Get Sentences Ranging From 10 to 30 Days For Contributing to Girls' Delinquency.

GIRL IS SENT TO CLERMONT

Widespread Investigation in Juvenile Court Reveals Sordid Life in Some Homes.

Four boys and a man were sentenced to the county jail in juvenile court late yesterday and today by Judge John A. Tittsworth, for terms ranging from ten to thirty days, on the charge of contributing to the delinquency of girls under seventeen years of age, and one girl was sent to the Indiana Industrial School for Girls at Clermont, in the suburbs of Indianapolis.

The boys sentenced to jail, and their terms and ages are as follows: John Barnett, age sixteen, son of Mrs. Will Wolf, thirty days; Ed. Campbell, age eighteen, son of Mrs. Martha Campbell, thirty days; Chase Clifford, age nineteen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Clifford, thirty days; William Joyce, age twenty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Joyce, ten days. Oliver Leisure, age thirty-seven, was sent to jail for ten days.

Tom Joyce retained Young & Young as attorneys in an effort to appeal the case to a higher court. Judge Tittsworth placed the bond at two hundred dollars. Mr. Joyce said that he could furnish the bail as soon as the appeal bond was prepared. However, the officials, when they consulted the statute, discovered that it was impossible under the law to appeal from the sentence, and the Joyce boy will have to serve out his sentence of ten days.

Minnie Weevie, age sixteen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weevie, who reside across the race from the I. & C. power house, was sent to the girls' school for incorrigibility. She will be taken to Clermont at once.

Margaret Dinwiddie, age fifteen years, daughter of Marion Dinwiddie, was before the court and the evidence she gave caused conviction of some of the boys. She, however, was allowed to go free, but was warned that strict watch would be kept over her conduct, and if she does not act as she should, she will be sent to the industrial school.

Judge Tittsworth recommended to Prosecutor Wallace Morgan that he file a charge of incorrigibility against the Dinwiddie girl in the light of the testimony she had given in juvenile court. The prosecutor argued that he would like to keep the girl here as a material witness in some criminal cases along this line which may be brought.

The court held that the girl was incorrigible, judging from her actions and testimony, and the board of women who have been looking after delinquent children here also believed that she should be sentenced. It is understood that the girl today tried to make arrangements with the prosecutor and the court to be allowed to go to Dayton, Ohio to live with her sister.

The testimony of little Sylvia Crawford, age thirteen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Crawford, implicated some of the boys who were sent to jail. She was set free because the court and prosecutor decided that she was not beyond redemption. Her father promised that he would try more in the future to see that she was at home at night, and that he would keep closer watch on her. She was warned, also, that she might follow in the path of the Weevie girl if she did not behave.

The whole investigation of the juvenile court—and it is not over yet by any means—originated with the charge of incorrigibility filed against the Weevie girl. This was called to the attention of the authorities when she ran away to Connersville with Earl Hunter a few weeks ago. She and the Hunter boy were hauled up in court, and in mayor's court, he was sentenced to jail for ten days and fined ten dollars and costs, which makes a total of about thirty days which he is serving out in jail.

The case of the girl was transferred to the juvenile court and she was first arraigned before Judge Blair. He appointed John A. Tittsworth special juvenile judge to investigate the case and those tributary to it when the term of the circuit court closed.

At first the Weevie girl was reluctant about disclosing any facts about the sordid life, that she, although only a mere child, had been living. Finally, she was persuaded to tell all she knew, and her testimony resulted in several of the boys coming into juvenile court and being sentenced on the girl's story as well as their own admissions.

The juvenile court investigation brought out a deplorable condition of affairs that has been existing here which would hardly be thought to be the case in even a much larger city. The stories of midnight escapades in various places, such as the parks and other public places were forced from the lips of the youngsters.

The juvenile investigation has resulted in the resolution of the police to enforce the curfew law more rigidly. The boys have been running wild on the streets after eight o'clock, which practice is to be stopped.

In each investigation the juvenile court officials have gone into the homes of the delinquent children and they have, without exceptions, found that the conditions are bad and that not much blame can be attached to the children. It seems to be first of all, juvenile court officials say, a problem of agencies that confronts them. In most cases they are children of parents who, either on one side or the other, are affected, generally physically, with some hereditary disease. In most cases either father or mother are in such condition that they should not be allowed to have offsprings.

The family of Charles Weevie, from which Minnie Weevie comes, is a case in point. There are ten children in the family, none and three have died. It has been noted also that these cases that have come to juvenile court arises in homes where there are large families. The Weevie family.

MART CRAMER IS DEAD FROM DROPSY

Well Known Andersonville Man Expires After Four Months' Illness—Widow and 3 Children

RELATIVE OF JOE COWING

Mart Cramer, a brother-in-law of Joe Cowing of this city, died at his home in Andersonville yesterday of dropsy. He was sixty-six years old and has been in poor health for four months. For the last few weeks little hope has been held out for his recovery. Mr. Cramer has been engaged for a number of years as a teamster and was well known in the "neck" of Rush, Franklin and Fayette counties. He was a member of the tribe of Red Men at Andersonville.

Mr. Cramer is survived by a widow and three children: Mrs. A. I. Clark of Morristown, Mrs. Nellie Scott of Andersonville, and Miss Wilma Cramer, who lived at home. The funeral will probably be held at the home tomorrow, and burial will take place in the Baptist cemetery near Andersonville.

PREACHES NOT TO SOOTHE SINNERS

Dr. Biederwolf's Sermon on "Repentance" is Pungent, Piercing Philippic Against Sin.

PUTS IT UP TO THE PREACHERS

Interest Increases as Close of Evangelistic Campaign Nears—Prayer Tomorrow Morning.

Church bells will ring tomorrow morning at nine o'clock for three minutes, calling the people of Rushville to prayer.

Much interest was displayed at the opening of the last week of services at the tabernacle last night, when Dr. Biederwolf preached on "Repentance." With good weather this week it is expected that people will rally to the support of the revival and great results will be obtained, not only for the present but for future.

Special music has been arranged for tonight's services. Plans are going steadily forward for the mammoth parade and demonstration Saturday night. Last night's sermon was in part as follows:

"I am sure I could preach on a more popular subject tonight but I am just as sure I couldn't preach on a more important one.

"This is not to be one of those sweet consoling sort of sermons that seduces a sinner into a soothing sort of satisfaction with himself but it is to be under God, if I can make it so, a pungent, piercing philippic against sin and a passionate, pleading importunity to penitence and to the pardoning provisions of a patient and merciful God.

"I wonder if we take a poll of the preachers here tonight—if we would take a poll of all the preachers of the land, how long it would be since some of them preached a sermon on repentance. I think its up to the preachers to educate the people on what they ought to hear and not to allow the pews to set the standard for the pulpit. People don't want their sins condemned of course. They are willing to have you shoot it into the other fellow as long as you don't disturb them.

"Of course people don't like to be showed up. That aint human nature. If you went to a photographer and he made you look exactly like you, you'd never go back to him. You'd say, 'Why, I don't look like that at all.' Well, it looks like you. But the photographer is on to his job and so he takes the crows feet out of your face and the pimples off your chin and the wart off your nose, and then you're so pleased with it you tell him it is such fine work he ought to put it in his glass case downstairs in front of his shop. People don't want their pet sins condemned.

"We've got men in our churches who are sitting in the pews with the price of tenements let to shame in their pockets; houses where girls, trapped by some lecherous dog of a man, offer up what is left of body and soul on the altar of masculine lust and send the contamination of their polluted, diseased bodies through the young men of this town into your best homes from which some day they will lead your daughters in marriage to damn their life and pollute their offspring with their own poisoned blood.

"We have women sitting in our churches clad in silks that represent sent the profits of the distillery and

KIAMIL PASHA

President of Turkish Council
a Power in the Present War.

POWERS PLANNING TO PUT A STOP TO WAR

Will Intervene After Battle of Adrianople.

London, Oct. 23.—At all points except Mustapha Pasha, where there has been heavy fighting, the advance of the Bulgarians upon Adrianople where the most important battle of the Balkan war will in all probability be fought has been stopped. King Ferdinand is moving his pawns with caution. He realizes as do all military men in Europe, the importance of the undertaking. Next is expected that the powers will come forward, after the inevitable battle around Adrianople, and take extraordinary measures to induce the victor in this contest to accept moderate terms and end the trouble in the Balkans then and there.

But while the Bulgars are coming gingerly to the outskirts of Adrianople, the Servians are having their fill of fighting in their march on Uskub. They find themselves opposed by 40,000 Arnaut tribesmen, supported by a thousand Turkish regulars and four batteries of artillery.

From the Montenegrins comes word that they have been bombarding Tarakach for the past four days. Scutari, it appears, is not so easy to capture as the troops of King Nicholas have thought. The Greeks are bombarding Provesa, at the entrance to the Gulf of Arta, and have landed troops southeast of Salonika.

The Ottoman troops are attacking the Bulgars all along the line from Adrianople to Kirk-Killesseh, where the fighting is hottest. Not only has the Bulgarian advance been very suddenly checked, but the Bulgars find themselves in a hostile country with their lines of communication seriously endangered. Kalimandja and Tundja are said to have fallen to the Turks and the Bulgarian loss is reported to be heavy.

Fired on Christian Villages.
Athens, Oct. 23.—The Turkish regulars in Epirus have fired on the Christian villages of Karoki and Limnits. King George and Premier Venizelos will visit the front shortly. The Greek fleet is reported to have captured a Turkish transport full of troops.

SELECTED SITE

Governor Marshall Picked Place For Indiana Building.

San Francisco, Oct. 23.—Governor Thomas R. Marshall, of Indiana, interrupted his campaign here yesterday to select a site for the Indiana building on the grounds of the Panama-Pacific exposition. Governor Marshall, who made two addresses here last night, went to the fair ground from a luncheon tendered him by the exposition directors. He was escorted by a troop of cavalry to the site which is on the Presidio military reservation, and before taking possession, reviewed a parade of two regiments of United States troops in his honor. A large number of members of the Indiana State Society of Indiana were present at the ceremony.

Grand Jury Investigating.
Tipton, Ind., Oct. 23.—The grand jury is investigating the case of R. O. Emerson, who shot and killed Robert Baughman ten days ago. Emerson tipped off Baughman as a safeblower and helped in the pursuit of him, finally killing him when he took refuge under a house.

House Dress Problem Solved

BALDWIN

You are interested in house dresses every woman is. Ask to see the Baldwin, the dress that slips on like a coat. There is not a button, a hook or eye on it. Just two self clasp catches at the back and—Snap! and it's on. Every Baldwin has reversible fronts, easily changed, giving you Double Service, both as to wear and to cleanliness.

Made of quality percales and chambrays by skilled labor and under the Consumers' League Inspection.

Baldwin garments are used by nurses, maids, invalids, housewives and by every woman needing a neat, handy dress. While designed as a house dress, they are used extensively on vacations, in camp, and at the sea-shore.

A GLADSOME QUIP.

Fort Wayne News: Just a few hours before Colonel Roosevelt was shot his distinguished opponent, Dr. Wilson, who "believes in appealing to reasons rather than to the passions of the voters," indulged in the following gladsome quip: "If I were a cartoonist I would draw a picture of the biggest monopolies in the country, standing in line, and in front of them, Theodore Roosevelt trying to lead them in a hallelujah chorus."

BEVERIDGE'S FACE.

Muncie Press: Senator Beveridge's face still decorates the lids of child labor cigar boxes. If it were either of his opponents who had sold his phiz for a mess of lithographs what a howl Beveridge would be setting up.

BULL MOOSE SNEER.

Muncie Press: The Indianapolis Star sneers at Samuel Ralston because he failed to tip an expectant barber at Connersville devoting a quarter of a column to the incident. The Star is conducting its campaign on so high a plane that it must feel like an aeronaut.

When you have a bad cold you want the best medicine obtainable so as to cure it with as little delay as possible. Here is a druggist's opinion: "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for fifteen years," says Enos Lollar of Saratoga, Ind., "and consider it the best on the market." For sale by All Dealers. PURDUE MARKS IMPORTANT STEP

Will Offer Short Course Next Two Months For Fruit Growers in Indiana.

FOR MEN WHO RUN ORCHARDS

Marking an important step in the education of fruit growers of Indiana, Purdue University will offer for the first time a short course, opening Monday, Dec. 2. The course will extend through to Dec. 14. Every instructor will be an expert in his special line, and the problems of the orchardist will be discussed from every standpoint.

The course is designed primarily for nature men who own and operate their own orchards. Each season sees an advance in knowledge of the best means of controlling the enemies of the fruit crop and managing the orchard. New and improved spray materials are introduced as the result of previous experiments, and investigations and the means of making and applying old remedies from year to year.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

THE CRIME OF CRIMES.

(New York World.)

Theodore Roosevelt has been identified with the Republican party for thirty years. He is leaving it at a time when the party is not only less corrupt, but when it is more responsive to public opinion than at any other period during those three decades.

The Republican party was good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in 1882 when he wanted to go to the assembly, although at the election that fall the people of New York repudiated it by a majority of 200,000.

The Republican party was good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in 1889, when he wanted to be a civil service commissioner, although the chairman of its national committee was Matthew Stanley Quay.

The Republican party was good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in 1897 when he wanted to be assistant secretary of the navy, and obtained that office by the favor of Hanna, Platt and Quay.

The Republican party was good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in 1898 when he wanted to be governor of New York and was willing to help Platt's corrupt machine in return for the nomination.

The Republican party was good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in 1908 when the leaders interposed no objection to his nominating himself for president.

The Republican party was good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in 1908 when William H. Taft was nominated.

The Republican party would have been good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in 1912 if it had nominated him for a third term, and Mr. Roosevelt would have welcomed the support of every man and every interest now supporting Mr. Taft.

A new party is necessary not because the Republican party is hopelessly corrupt or hopelessly reactionary, but because the Republican party refused to nominate "ME." That is the crime of crimes. Because of that iniquity the Republican party must be destroyed.

Driver of Murder Car Gives Hard Blow to Becker's Case.

THE BECKER DEFENSE SUSTAINS HARD BLOW

Driver of Murder Car Corroborates Jack Rose.

New York, Oct. 23.—Before 11 o'clock tomorrow morning Lieutenant Becker's jury will retire to decide whether or not he is guilty of the murder of Herman Rosenthal. Today is being devoted entirely to the summing up. Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock Justice Goff will deliver his charge to the jury.

The defense rested its case without calling Becker as a witness. The case of the defense sagged to an end after their last witnesses had made admissions hurtful to Lieutenant Becker's cause and discouraging to his lawyers. And then the district attorney as a final blow hurled against them the testimony of Willie Shapiro, the chauffeur of the murder car, who, bending to the persuasions of his lawyer, broke away from the gunmen, who cursed him as he left them in the Tombs, and corroborated, on the witness stand, everything that Jack Rose had testified to about rounding up the murderers and about their departure from Webber's gambling house to kill Rosenthal.

Shapiro's decision at the last moment to let the gunmen, Jack Sullivan and Becker shift for themselves, was a shocking blow to the defense. They had tried to get Shapiro to testify for Becker. In the Tombs the chauffeur had been urged to keep his mouth shut at least. But his lawyer advised him that if he hoped to save himself from the electric chair he had better volunteer to tell the truth. So Shapiro made an affidavit covering his connection with the murder. It was not only a detailed corroboration of the testimony of Rose and of the other informers as to the movements of the murderers, but of their accusation that Becker was the director of the murder.

Girl Slain by Italians.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 23.—An unknown young woman who is supposed to have lived in Water street in this city, was taken in an auto to a lonely spot on the road from Bridgeport to Derby early last evening by five Italians and shot to death by one of them. Three men believed to have been members of the party are under arrest.

Fined Despite Victim's Protest.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 23.—Mrs. Oda Jones was seized with a nightmare while sleeping, and grabbing a pair of scissors stabbed her husband. The screams of the husband awakened the neighbors. The police were called and the woman was arrested. In spite of the protests of the husband Mrs. Jones was fined $25 and costs.

WHOSE OX IS GORED.

Muncie Press: The fellows who were so ready to swallow the unfounded stories against Jim Watson four years ago hold up their hands with holy horror this year over the circulation of the perfectly true tales about Albert J. Beveridge. It all depends on whose ox is gored, you know.

Wanderings In Decapolis. Mark vii:31-viii:10.

Golden Text—He hath done all things well; he maketh both the deaf to hear and the dumb to speak. Mark vii:37.

(1.) Verse 31—Describe the route Jesus took from the coast of Tyre and Sidon to the sea of Galilee.

(2.) Why did Jesus stay so short a time in one place?

(3.) Verses 32-35—What is the extent of the loss borne by one who is both deaf and dumb?

(4.) What is being done and what more can be done for the deaf and dumb of this country than we are doing?

(5.) Why did Jesus use such an elaborate process in curing this man when most of his other miracles were so simple?

(6.) Would you say that Jesus used these signs as the only way to convey to the patient what he was going to do for him? Why?

(7.) Why did Jesus perform this miracle in private when most of his other miracles were done in public?

(8.) Did Jesus perform this miracle by his own innate power or by the power of God in answer to his "looking up into heaven?"

(9.) Should we bring our sick ones to Jesus today in expectation that he will heal them or should we use the means to that end which God has given us in nature?

(10.) Verse 36—Which is the greater sinner, and why, he who tells things God wishes not to be made known or he who keeps to himself what he ought to publish abroad?

(12.) Disobedience always results in evil. What evil results probably came from this act of disobedience to Jesus' command?

(13.) Verse 37—If our historic vision of this miracle were as acute as that of the eyewitnesses what would our estimate of it be?

(14.) Mention if you can any word or act of Jesus which would prevent you from saying, "He hath done all things well."

(15.) What man in all history stirs today the most astonishment, and why is it so? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(16.) viii:14—What evidence is there that the feeding of the four thousand is not a variation of the account of the feeding of the five thousand?

(17.) What reason is there to suppose that Jesus sympathizes with those in need today as he did in that day?

(18.) Notwithstanding that God does not supply our needs now miraculously, does he supply them surely and may we absolutely trust him for the future? Why?

(20.) What shape does Christ's "compassion on the multitude" take today?

(21.) Is time spent in the service of Christ ever forgotten by him and is it ever profitless? Why?

(22.) Verse 5—What proof is there that our ability, our opportunity and our resources are ample for our full duty?

(23.) Verses 6-10—What are the advantages of system and order in both our sacred and secular matters?

(24.) What better is food after it has been "blessed" than before?

(25.) What are the evils of waste and the gain of economy?

Lesson for Sunday, Nov. 3, 1912. The Sign and the Leaven. Mark viii:11-26.

MARATHON UP A MOUNTAIN

Test of Endurance for Vigorous Swiss Athletes Is Race Up the Stanserhorn.

A Marathon race up a mountain in the Swiss Alps is a test of endurance to which only the most vigorous among professional mountaineers would care to submit themselves.

The first event of this kind took place the other day, and despite the obvious difficulties, proved a great success. The mountain selected was the Stanserhorn, 6,236 feet above the sea level, and the difference in altitude to be covered was roughly 4,700 feet; the starting point, the little town of Stans, being some 1,500 feet above the sea.

About 1,500 spectators took the funicular railway up the mountain-side, or made a leisurely ascent on foot to cheer the winner, who proved to be Karl Hug, a young Swiss Alpinist of Alpnach, his time being 1 hour and 4 minutes. The second arrival took eight minutes longer, and the last of the 52 competitors finished 45 minutes later.

The promoter of the race was a wealthy German who has offered valuable prizes and who rather fancied himself for the championship. He was greeted with sympathetic cheers when he arrived, puffing and blowing at the goal, half an hour after the last competitor, and innocently asked "if any of them had been sighted yet."—New York Sun.

AVIATORS IN THE DESERT

Enthusiasts Have Made Plans for a Regular Service Across the Sands of Sahara.

The Desert of Sahara seems to have a fascination for the aviators, who have made ambitious plans for establishing a regular service—particularly for military purposes—across the sands to Timbuctu.

One of the chief obstacles is the difficulty of reaching a machine that has come to grief. The sand in many parts of the desert is so soft that it is almost impassable, except by the broad-footed camels.

One of the enthusiasts at Biskra has devised an automobile for desert work that seems to promise a solution. It is driven by an air propeller, like those on aeroplanes, and is mounted on a triangular skeleton body, each corner being supported by two large-tired wheels which are so mounted that they can adapt themselves to a very irregular surface.

The entire weight, including a 50-horse power engine, is only 700 pounds.

Mineral Wealth in Ireland.

A remarkable discovery of silver and lead has been made at Clew, near Keady, County Armagh, Ireland, by a farmer named Conlon. While working in a field the other day he turned up a piece of bright metal, which he put in his pocket and afterwards placed on the mantel shelf in the kitchen, thinking little more about it. Subsequently an old miner who had worked in Cornwall, when visiting the house, examined the ore, and advised Mr. Conlon to obtain expert advice upon it. This was done, and the analytical tests showed that the ore contained 5 per cent. of pure silver and 85 per cent. lead of first quality. A mining expert and some other gentlemen visited the place, and as a result of boring operations a bed of solid ore was, it is said, struck just a little over five feet from the surface. Steps are now being taken with a view to obtaining the mining rights of the land.

Ghost Gave the Tip.

An extraordinary story of a gambling "tip" from the regions of spirits is that of Signor Crotta, the station-master at Ciccignano, near Naples. Signor Crotta speculated one franc at a weekly lottery, and now finds himself in consequence the lucky winner of $120,000. On learning the good tidings Crotta's first task was to telegraph to the directorate of the State Railways his resignation. He is a married man, and has a daughter who is a local schoolmistress. The station-master is also setting apart a sum for masses on behalf of his dead aunt, whose ghost, he avows, appeared to him in the early hours of the fateful morning bidding him gamble on four numbers which she revealed to him, all of which eventually proved lucky ones.

Wandering Wireless Waves.

A curious phenomenon in connection with wireless telegraphy has been observed in the neighborhood of the Clichy-Levallois railway station, near Paris. In proximity to the railway line some telegraph lines were recently erected on columns fitted with ordinary insulators. The workmen occupied on the section experienced severe shocks when they touched the wires. Experiments were made to discover the cause of this phenomenon and as a result it was found that the currents were produced by Hertzian waves originating from the wireless telegraph station at the Eiffel tower.—Telegraph Age.

Seaweed Made Valuable.

It is estimated that those engaged in the industry of gathering seaweed and reducing it to gelatinous food in Japan alone number 600,000 persons. Within recent years seaweeds have been introduced into the English kitchen. The edible species, served with roast meats, have been found to be very palatable. Devonshire and Japanese seaweeds are employed largely in the London industry.

Snapshots on Democracy.

The Democratic party favors sending 48 boys instead of one big man as a policeman to make the trusts behave.

High cost of living is bad enough, but with good wages it is better than the soup houses and bread lines of 1893.

When you pick out a party to reform our financial system, better get one that in past years has known the difference between a dollar and a half dollar, also between a dollar and a piece of worthless paper.

Just as you can't have home stores in a place if people buy all their goods of stores in distant cities and mail order houses, so you can't have American factories if you buy your goods in Europe.

An example of the results of Dem-

Sam Sanderson Says:

That those of us who look with contempt on a flea should remember it is the only agency which ever got any work out of a dog.

during the seven and one-half years of President Roosevelt's occupancy of the White House, as compared with 66 cases, 39 criminal and 27 civil brought during the three and one-half years of President Taft's administration.

The condition and prosperity of the people and not theories are what count. Theories do not fill dinner baskets, find clothes for the kiddies, and place eatables on the table. Only Republican prosperity does all three.

They are talking of tearing down the jail where the Lawrence strike leaders are kept, but if they do they will probably be several other prisons still standing for those who do it.

If the presidential candidates are strictly prudent they will keep out of crowds, but it would no doubt be safe for them to address the Ladies' Aid Societies.

They are getting so ructionous in New York state as to expect to hold convention without asking Mr. Barnes and Mr. Murphy what boys should peddle popcorn among the delegates.

The good prices received for farm products will cause the farmers to vote for Mr. Taft.

Editorialettes

Progress is a porch climber, says Elbert Hubbard. What, then, are we to infer about the Progressive party?

The Bull Moosers, you know.

George Perkins says he never knew a man in public life to let loose of a dollar when he got it. Mr. Perkins thus condemns public men, and revelations in the senate investigation of the last few weeks reveal that Mr. Perkins has been doing a lot to reform public men by pouring hundreds of thousands of dollars into their laps for services rendered and to be rendered.

See the frost, did you articulate?

Hardly, it was too light. Nothing to talk about, if we mention such trivial matters you say? Correct. Nothing to do but fill this column.

HOLDS RECORD.

Muncie Press: The newspapers of the Star league presented a pretty good photograph of themselves in action against President Taft, Colonel Durbin and other candidates of the Republican party in picturing a wild-eyed individual standing in a pool of filth hurling mud at an adversary. The Star league has broken all Indiana records for abusiveness and misrepresentation in this campaign.

KIND OF STAR.

blood of their slaughtered thousands still cries out against us.

"We've got men in the church who are extortionists and devour widows' houses and make long prayers for a pretense; men who will lend a poor woman a little sum of money at an enormous rate of interest and then put the screws on and take her property on a first mortgage claim.

"We've got golf-playing Sabbath defilers and worship-forsaken automobile fiends and women going daffy over a lot of things that God hasn't got any use for and where in the name of God are we going to get any power. And I wonder if it isn't because of our cowardice that the world looks upon us with so much disdain. I wonder if the theological seminaries ain't boring the guns too small for the load we've got to fire today. I wonder if some don't fire because if they do they are afraid the congregation will fire them, but I declare to you that nothing will ever save the church and cause her to usher in the kingdom of God but a plain, fearless dealing with sin and a call for people to repent of their sin and do what God wants them to do.

"Yes, I could preach on a more popular subject but I couldn't preach on a more important one. Carnegie can put a public library on every corner in the land and you can fill our cities and our towns with ethical culture clubs and new thought circles and let them meet every day in the week, but unless the people learn to see what sin really is and so come to such an appreciation of its black and hideous character as will cause them to have a Godly sorrow for it, make an honest confession of it and quit before God and man we might just as well sign a quit claim deed to the Devil and be done with it and go out of the business of saving the world.

"And that's just what repentance means. You can get your definition of it from the Shorter Catechism or put it in other phraseology but you can't make it any better, a strong Conviction of sin, a Godly Contrition for it, an honest Confession of it and a permanent Discontinuance of it, and there you've got it—that's Repentance.

"But unless a man discontinues his sin the other things I mentioned don't amount to much. He's got to quit. And so maybe I can best tell you what Repentance is by first telling you what it is not.

"First. In the first place it is not Conviction alone. Of course a man must be convinced; he must have a realizing consciousness of sin. That's why God sent the Holy Spirit into the world that He might convict us of sin and without conviction the Son would have died in vain on the cross.

"Second. And then Contrition alone will never do it. Of course a man's got to be sorry. David said: 'I will be sorry for my sins.' But Paul said there is a Godly sorrow which worketh repentance and there is a sorrow the world which worketh death. So you see there's a mighty big difference between the kind of sorrow that a man can have.

"Some people wait till the dews of death are on their brow and then they can weep alight and tell you how sorry they are. But its not sorrow because they know they have broken the heart of God a million times by their life of sin and rebellion against His, but because they see the gates of hell opening to take their miserable souls in, and they send for a priest or a preacher to pray them into heaven. But nine times out of ten a man who gets a case of sorrow on like that would go right back into the old life when he gets well. If merely being sorry is repentance, then hell is full of penitents, for, 'there is weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth for evermore.'

"Third. And then confession of your sin isn't enough.

"What God wants is a sincere confession and any other kind isn't worth the breath it takes to make it. And a sincere confession will always lead to that kind of repentance that will cause you to put the evil out of your life and keep it out by the help of God.

the brewery and the crimson life lives in very unsanitary conditions and the oldest son, Raymond, is in advanced stages of consumption. An effort is being made to place him in the State sanatorium for white plague patients so his brothers and sisters will not be infected.

In each case where a boy or girl was in juvenile court, their parents were also before the judge. They were admonished to keep a more careful watch over their children and were warned that the law would handle parents who contribute to the neglect of their children.

The statute in this regard is very strict. It reads in part: "When any child is found to be dependent or neglected, as defined by sections 1 and 2 of this act the parents, parent, person or persons having the care custody or control of such child, or any other person, who is or are responsible for, or who by any act or omission of duty encourages, counsels or contributes to the neglect of such child, or who, by reason of wilful neglect of any duty owing by said parent or parents, person or persons to such child, is or are responsible for its neglect or dependency, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction in any juvenile court, be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred ($500) dollars; to which may be added imprisonment in the county jail or workhouse for a period not exceeding six months."

At least seven young girls in Rushville have been under the eyes of the juvenile court, and their parents had better have a care, the court officials say, else they may be arraigned for contributing to their neglect. Many of the parents in these cases yesterday and today were severely criticized for their attitude toward their children.

The sentence of John Barnett was the result of his alleged relations with the little thirteen-year-old Crawford girl. The father of the girl said he had gone to the mother of the boy and asked that she keep her son away from his house because his daughter was not old enough to keep company. He testified that the boys mother said her son was old enough to do as he pleased.

Mrs. Wolf, mother of the boy, took offense at the prosecutor's statement in open court that the boy's parents were responsible. She did not deny it in open court, but wanted the fact published that she had gone to Crawford first about the boy and girl and he had appeared unconcerned. She said that Crawford had given her son shirts and that he had eaten supper at Crawford's house only last Sunday night, when Crawford should have given her son "the toe of his boot," in her own words.

Juvenile court officials intimate that men may be implicated in the investigation, and that in their case it will not mean a misdemeanor but a crime with a prison sentence attached. Oliver Leisure, who was sentenced to jail, had furnished the Weevie girl with clothes and money to make a defense of the incorrigibility charge, it was brought out in the hearing.

THE YELLOW STAR

(Anderson Bulletin.)

The Indianapolis Star howls about the yellow press. But if any newspapers in the country are more yellow than the Star no one has seen them.

The Star teems daily with the most vulgar allusions to prominent men. Today has this: "The Yellow Dogs, Harlan and Bede, Have Been Called Off." Is that not yellow and vulgar? Both Mr. Harlan and Mr. Bede are reputable men. It refers to the president as that "fat man." That king of reference to the president of the United States is "feller" and boorish.

The Star is one of the worst examples of "yellow" journalism in this country, and it makes no pretense to tell the truth about its opponents.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess will have a Vitagraph drama "Vultures and Doves" for the first picture tonight. It is a story of a get-rich-quick scheme and is said to be a very interesting picture. "A dangerous Lesson" is an Edison drama.

The Palace offers the usual two pictures tonight. "The Mountain Daisy" is a clever Nestor drama. The other is an educational subject "The Great Discovery." This one shows the raising of children by incubators.

The Women's Candidate

By BYRON WILLIAMS

CHAPTER VI.

In the office, smoking one of Mine Host's best cigars, his dignity outraged, sat the sheriff, waiting.

Mayor Bedight walked up the hotel stairs, oblivious to his pending fate. Suddenly a door opened and a head appeared, a blonde head, a piquant head, a head to catch the fancy of an artist.

"Shh!" said the owner of the pretty profile. Bedight stopped, looking around cautiously.

"Hurry!" commanded the girl, holding open the door of her room.

His Honor, the Mayor, hesitated for a moment—and then, throwing conventionality to the winds, bolted through. The girl turned the key in the lock and faced him accusingly.

"Well of all the blundering bouncers! Do you know the sheriff has been hanging around here all afternoon waiting to arrest you?"

The mayor looked brazenly at the girl. "I expected as much," he said, carelessly.

"What have you been doing now?" she demanded, giving him a severe reprimand from two otherwise kindly hazel eyes.

"Oh, chuck the attitude, Bess," growled the mayor, disgustedly. "That little imp of a Mabel Arney insisted on riding the black saddle. He ran away with her and in trying to catch the minx, I collided with a baby carriage and spilled the baby's milk. That's all. The confounded natives are always ready to arrest a summer resortor, and believing the peace and the dignity of the village had been shattered, they threw us in jail. We broke out," suddenly. "Do you blame us?"

Before she could reply there was a knock on the door.

The girl's face went white. "I—I'm afraid somebody saw you come in here!" she whispered.

"—course," he breathed. "Here—I'll slip under the bed. Go to the door."

In a twinkling the mayor was safely out of sight. The girl opened the door.

"Oh, hello, Jackie," she cried, in a relieved voice. "Come in."

"Bess, we're in a terrible pickle," sobbed Miss Vining. "That horrid man took Mabel Arney to Lakeville this morning and got her arrested. The sheriff insists she must be in the hotel and I've promised to bring the entire crowd out on the veranda for inspection. Mabel is frightened almost to death. Bess," dramatically, "we've got to dress her so the officer won't know her. Have you a switch of that flaxen hair of yours? I've got Mae Andrews' puffs. They'll match yours. We'll cover Mabel's black thatch until she looks like an albino. Here she is now," as the rustle of skirts proclaimed a new arrival.

The mayor lay on his back, facing the mattress.

"Where's that white princess of yours?" demanded Jackie. "She wore brown today. We'll have to take some tucks in it," going to the closet and helping herself.

"Here, Mabe, get into this, and live."

"Oh, not here!" protested Bess Winters, snatching the dress from Miss Vining's hands.

The judge looked at Bess blankly. "Why not?"

"Be—because!" shrilled Bess. "I'm afraid. Slip into your room, that's a dear, and I'll bring the switch in at once."

"Oh, who's afraid?" gurgled Mabel, reaching for the gown.

"Step into the closet," implored Miss Winters. "Somebody might come."

"Bess, you're an awful coward," anathematized the judge, sternly.

The man under the bed heard the closet door close and waited. There didn't seem to be anything else to do.

Presently Miss Arney reappeared. With hysterical laughter the changing of blackhaired Mabel into a ravishing blonde proceeded rapidly.

"There!" exclaimed Miss Vining triumphantly, "the sheriff will never know her in the world. Come on."

Mayor Bedight heard the door close. Rolling from under the bed, he locked the door and sat down to await developments. Half an hour later somebody knocked at the door. The mayor waited.

"Walter!" whispered an excited

Margaret Farnsworth.

voice. "Open the door. It is I—Bess."

"Come in," replied the mayor, turning the key.

"We fooled him!" she cried, radiantly. "He couldn't find his prisoner. Mine Host told him there were but ten young ladies—and he went away bewildered—but he's coming back tomorrow to watch for you."

The man shrugged his shoulders. "Bess, you scout out and discover what Harriet Brooks—" consulting his list—"would like to have me do tomorrow and whatever it is we start at five in the morning."

The girl hurried away.

The mayor seated himself at a small desk and began to write. He was still at it when Bess returned.

"She has discovered an Indian mound on Glen Island and she wants you to go with her and open it. I have arranged to have her meet you at the bathing beach at sun-up."

The mayor scowled. He was not fond of grave-digging.

"Thank you, Bess," he said finally. "And now if you don't mind, I want to write a while."

"Very well, Walter," she consented, taking up a magazine.

For an hour neither spoke. Then the man laid down his pen and, looking at the sand:

"Bess, I want to know where Jackie Vining keeps that confounded anti-suffrage bill of mine."

"I refuse to enlighten you," sniffed the girl determinedly.

"Bess, you've got to tell me. I must get out of this confounded hole. My campaign opens on the following Saturday and I must be there. I wouldn't mind serving out my sentence but these outraged natives have butted in on the game and they'll have me in jail inside of a week, as sure as Fate. You wouldn't want me to lose my election, Bess?" looking at her with appealing eyes.

"Walter, it is downright mean of you to even think of introducing a bill such as you have prepared. You deserve to lose—but I'm willing," condescendingly, "to do what I can for you. The bill—your bill—is in the personal possession of Judge Vining. She—in fact, she means to build a waist to avoid losing it," blushing. "Now I hope you are satisfied—and you may go. The sheriff has disappeared for the night. You can safely occupy your apartment."

"You're a good sport," said the mayor, patting the girl tenderly on the cheek—and passed out.

CHAPTER VII.

"There is the mound," advised Harriet Brooks on Wednesday morning, pointing to a rounded heap of earth just beyond the shade of a burr-oak a half mile inland from Sylvan Lake on Glen Isle.

Mayor Bedight took off his coat ruefully. Being prisoner to a prematurely gray-haired young lady with a clear, rosy complexion and a sweet, winsome manner was not so bad—but to be told to dig like a terrier in the rough soil was a horse of another color. But the mayor was game.

Grasping a spade, he set to work diligently. It was a warm morning and the perspiration began to ooze from his heated body.

"Come and sit in the shade a while," invited the girl, thoughtfully. "We have all day to ourselves—and the skeletons will not run away."

Bedight obeyed gratefully, throwing himself at the woman's feet in the cool shadows of the oak.

"I'm awfully interested in ancient and medieval things," she explained, smiling down at him over her book. "Once when I was in Iowa I met a man who was engaged in collecting curios—and he found a real mound-builder skeleton along the Cedar river while I was there. What if this should turn out to be something like that?" hopefully.

"Pardon me," said the mayor, boldly, "but a nice girl like yourself should not be so interested in dead ones—especially when the woods are full of live ones."

The girl's face flushed, the red against her white hair making her very attractive in the eyes of the man on the sand.

"The dead ones," she said slowly, "never stay out late nights, never tyrannize, never take everything for granted, never get a grouchy, never—"

The mayor interrupted her, his face serious as he said:

"There were Darby and Joan."

"But these are the days of divorce courts," she answered, "and—geniuses—"

"I am old-fashioned," he parried. "I like to dream of home with the woman in it."

"I fear it is going to rain," evaded Miss Brooks, looking anxiously at the cloud-filled west. "Do you mind digging a bit, Mr. Bedight?"

"As the wife said to her husband when she wanted a sealskin," he taunted, returning to the mound.

She came and stood over him as he worked.

His spade struck something—and her excitement grew.

"Oh, I do hope it's a mound builder!" she cried excitedly.

The mayor grinned and kept digging. A clap of thunder pealed in the distance. As she turned apprehensively, the digger's spade pried up a long, rosy object.

"Here is your mound builder," he said soberly, raising the object upon his spade.

She gasped.

The man smiled. "Oh!" from the woman.

"I am afraid," he breathed, softly. "It is exactly what it looks like—the tail of a cow!"

As she stood frowning at him, great drops of rain began to fall. He looked about hurriedly for shelter under a tree.

"Come on," he cried, starting for the boat upon the beach. "We'll have to camp out."

She followed him blindly.

He pulled the dory high and dry and tipped it keel up. "Crawl under," he said as the rain began to fall in torrents.

"Why, Mr. Bedight, I can't do that!"

The man took her gently by the arm.

She stooped and sat down upon the sand under the shelter. He followed, sitting close to her, of necessity. The fury of the storm broke. The day became as dusk, lighted only by the vivid flashes of anger that tore across the sky. He felt the woman tremble.

"I—I'm afraid," almost sobbing. The mayor put his arm about her gently, soothing her as only a tactful man may soothe a nervous woman. Unconsciously she drew toward him.

"Lightning seems terrible," he said evenly, "but as a matter of fact there is always more danger on the cars. Statistics prove—"

"What's that?" cried the woman, apprehensively. "I heard a voice."

The mayor peered out. "The sheriff!" he muttered under his breath.

Three men were running toward them on the beach, their heads down, ducking the rain.

Scrambling from under the boat, Mayor Bedight set off at top speed up the beach, pausing at the start long enough to whisper. "I'll be back. Wait."

The sheriff and his two deputies, weathering the gale with lowered eyes, had not seen the mayor's flight. In fact, so blinded were their eyes that they ran almost into the girl and the boat before they could stop.

"Hello!" bawled the sheriff. "You're from Squirrel Inn, ain't ye? Where's yer beau?" bluntly. "We're lookin' fer him."

Miss Brooks drew her feet back under her skirt and replied coldly: "One of the best ways to find a man," witheringly, "is to go where he is."

The sheriff's chest shot out immediately.

"Now, look-a-here, young lady, none of your smartness or we'll take you along for accessory before the act. Understand?" blustering.

SCREAM OF SPOTTED HYENA

Shrill Cry of This Animal One of the Most Uncanny Sounds of Nature.

The shrill falsetto scream of a spotted hyena coming in to feast at a "kill" is one of the most uncanny sounds in nature—so writes Maj. J. Stevenson-Hamilton, who has had many interesting opportunities of observing these animals while warden of the Transvaal game reserves, in his book, "Animal Life in Africa."

Soon after dark the hunter who is watching near a carcass will hear a long-drawn howl coming from somewhere far away in the forest. It is answered from another side, and presently the chorus is taken up from all directions. As the night draws on, the cries approach, until at last one issues from the bush close at hand. Now a stealthy shape shows itself for an instant on the edge of the bush, a maniacal shriek smites the ear, and is followed by an interval of dead silence. Suddenly there comes a babel of the most extraordinary noises—weld chucklings, screams of merry laughter, and occasionally the typical long-drawn "who-oo!" the first syllable pitched in a deep bass key, while the second rises to a piercing scream.

One hyena, bolder than the others, rushes forward and seizes a portion of the carcass, and then, if the watcher does not betray his presence, the whole troop closes in upon the bait. A gunshot may disturb nobler game, and the hunter must therefore drive away the scavengers with stones.

I was fishing in the Sabi one evening a few hundred yards from the compound fence, and the shadows had already gathered before I began to retrace my steps. Just as I was leaving the bank, a most extraordinary series of sounds came from the recesses of a bush 50 yards away. There was a shriek as of some human being in distress, followed by a number of low gurglings and chucklings, and then another shriek.

Knowing that no natives were in the bush, I stood wondering what it could be, and as I listened to the noise, several of my servants, with assagais and lights, came running at top speed through the compound gate. They stopped on seeing me, and said, "We thought some one had been taken by a lion."

The sounds still went on, now resembling the walls of an infant, when suddenly the familiar "who-oo!" set all doubts concerning the nature of the animal at rest.—Youth's Companion.

PUT YOURSELF INTO TASKS

Only in That Way Can You Obtain the Real Pleasure of Joy of Creating.

While every man who makes a living is not a genius, yet the real joy of creating can belong to each of us in just as real and true a way. If we put into farming, or banking, or our school work, the sense of making something, we get the great treasure out of it. When we fill any task with ourselves, we make something. A girl says, "I made the room tidy," which simply means she put something of herself into the disorderly room, and so beautified it. After she had made it tidy, it reflected something of herself; it looked some idea of order such as he had in her own mind. A boy says, "I made a good recitation in school yesterday," and he is right, for, although the lesson was already there, it had to wait for him to come along and make it a recitation.

So it is everywhere. Making anything means, no matter how simple the task, that we bring out something that did not exist before; and that that something is to some degree like the maker of it. We get out what we put in. If any one wants to be miserable, the surest way is just to do things without putting his whole heart and self into them. Think of the mere outside of the tasks, and they are not worth doing. But once put yourself into them, and all that is changed.—From George Lawrence Parker's "Making a Living" in St. Nicholas.

Sweet Thing.

Scarecrows are not the most beautiful things in the world, though once in a while you find one that is somewhat picturesque. But a farmer in New York has a scarecrow that is distinctly valuable. It is a sweet thing.

The farmer thought that something about the scarecrow was not as usual, and he went to find out what it was. He found that bees were swarming about the figure, and that one leg of the trousers was filled with honey comb. It was a queer place for a swarm of wild bees, but the farmer did not object to their trespassing on his property. He let them alone and after they had stored up a good supply of honey he coaxed them into a hive and set them up to housekeeping in his orchard. Then the children had fresh honey on their pancakes.

For Individual Soap.

A chemical friend of the Scientific American suggests that a campaign be started against the common cake of soap. About 50 years ago there was sold a form of soap for travelers consisting of a booklet, about two inches by four inches, in which small leaves of soft paper saturated with soap were bound. Each leaf contained enough soap for one washing of the hands. It is suggested that one might profitably dispense through a penny-in-the-slot machine a paper towel in which is folded a sheet of soap paper, for convenient use in public lavatories.

MABEL HITE

Popular Actress, Wife of Mike Donlin, Dead After Long Illness.

New York, Oct. 23.—Mabel Hite, as the actress wife of Michael Donlin, the baseball player, was known to theatre goers, died late yesterday afternoon at her apartments, following a long illness which the physicians and surgeons who attended Mrs. Donlin before she took up Christian Science early in the summer diagnosed as cancer. Miss Hite's stage work during the past three years has been interrupted frequently by illness.

COLONEL IS RESTING UNDER HIS OWN ROOF

Doctors and Nurses Dismissed at His Order.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Smiling and unassisted, Colonel Roosevelt walked from the private car which had brought him from Chicago to the limousine awaiting him at Syosset, and with a waved greeting to the few who attended his unexpected arrival, was borne swiftly across the intervening four miles to Sagamore Hill. Today he lies comfortably in his upstairs room, to which he ascended with only slight assistance. All four of the doctors who escorted him hither and the nurses have been dismissed for the time being at his order. Nothing about the residence of the ex-president indicates that all is not as usual. Apparently his long journey did not distress him at all. As far as his wound is concerned, he says that he suffers no pain, except under pressure.

Although the first idea was to go direct to Oyster Bay, this plan was changed to avoid the risk of a demonstration of welcome from the colonel's fellow townsmen, and his car was put on a siding at Syosset. When he alighted at Syosset the colonel was wearing the army greatcoat which bore the mark of the shot received at Milwaukee a week ago Monday night. With Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Ethel and George Roosevelt, he climbed with a firm step into the closed automobile and drove up to the stoop at Sagamore Hill.

The colonel has been strictly enjoined to see no visitors. This afternoon Drs. Lambert and Terrell are expected to return. Meanwhile he is being attended only by members of the family and his devoted negro body servant, "Jim," who is tireless in his watch.

Car Crashed Into Buggy.

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 23.—Moses Gant, age fifty-five, was killed when he drove his buggy across the interurban tracks near McCordsville. The car crashed into the buggy.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

President Taft will return to Washington for the winter next Sunday.

The annual convention of the Indiana Federation of Clubs is in session at Fort Wayne.

A. C. Glassburn, cashier of the First National bank of Tampico, Ill., was killed when his automobile plunged off a bridge.

The Illinois state supreme court has decreed that voting machines shall not be used in the voting precincts in Chicago at the November election.

Roger Bresnahan has been discharged as manager of the Cardinals baseball club. He says the news of his dismissal was the greatest shock he had ever received.

Reports that the Duchess of Marlborough is about to undergo an operation for appendicitis are untrue, as the duchess, formerly Consuelo Vanderbilt, is in Paris, the guest of Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay.

Thirteen survivors of the tramp steamer Nicaragua, which was disabled in the Gulf of Mexico Oct. 16, were rescued by members of the United States life saving crew at Port Aransas, Tex., after drifting six days in two small boats.

Frank Smith, an Indianapolis negro, has been arrested at Louisville and returned to Indianapolis, charged with the murder of two bartenders at a roadhouse near the latter city on the evening of Oct. 2. The police say he has confessed the crime.

RACES STOPPED BY MILITIAMEN

State Troops Capture the Track at Porter.

CHARGED WITH BAYONETS

Disregarding Howls of Managers of Gambling Game Which Has Been Going on in Porter County, Major Freyermuth of the Third Infantry Orders His Men to Take Charge of the Entrances.

Porter, Ind., Oct. 23.—When Major Freyermuth of South Bend reached the Porter track with Company F of the Third Infantry, trouble started at once. A. F. Knotts, in charge of the track, defied the militiamen to enter the grounds, then demanded that each should pay admission. Freyermuth, disregarding his protests, ordered his men to take charge of the ticket windows and turnstiles and sent others to meet the trains and advise passengers to return. Freyermuth's vigorous action followed a conference at Michigan City with Attorney General Honan and Brigadier General Garrard, who told him to go the limit.

When the horses were brought out for the first race, Captain Kimball of the South Bend company ordered his men to fix bayonets and the horses with their jockeys were driven back into the stables.

The soldiers pitched their tents within the inclosure. They kept every one from entering and those who were within the inclosure they held. More than fifty women who had arrived in anticipation of seeing the races were not permitted to leave the track. The owners and promoters of the course also are within the inclosure.

A special train from Chicago bearing a large number of spectators arrived just after the state guard appeared. It returned to Chicago with practically all of its passengers.

The race meeting at Porter was to have continued for fifteen days. The Indiana law permits fifteen days of racing each year, but gambling at the track is prohibited, and it was the flagrant violation of this prohibition that caused Governor Marshall to act.

Advertisements of the meet announced purses aggregating $2,000 would be distributed daily. Special rates by railroad and boat had been announced by railroads in Illinois and Indiana. The track is operated by a co-partnership. Among the partners in the enterprise were A. F. Knotts, Lemuel Darrow, Fred Henoch, J. R. Malone, John A. Gavit, Fred S. Carter, Peter Crumpacker and Clarence Bretsch. The old disreputable hand-book crowd of Chicago, with Mont Tennes and Jim O'Leary at its head, is interested in the project and just was getting ready to reap a harvest.

Ben R. Hyman, chief track functionary of the Mineral Springs Jockey club, became tremendously indignant when he was asked the day before to give a newspaper photographer permission to enter the space under the grandstand and take his machine with him.

"What in h— is the matter with you fellows?" he stammered. "Are you crazy? Do you realize it merely is through kindness on our part and by the indulgence of the management of these races that you are permitted to enter the grounds at all? If any photographer tries to go down there with his machine he will be thrown out, and you will be thrown out, too."

"Is that a threat, Mr. Hyman?" "Take it any way you like. It is a fact. I am running this place for a number of fine gentlemen who have invested in the racetrack. We are going to run things to suit ourselves."

The photographer wanted to get a picture of the bookmakers holding huge stacks of banknotes in their hands after one of the races. The last vestige of secrecy in tramping the Indiana state law under foot and making of Mineral Springs a carnival of gambling had vanished. On the road from the train to the track were hawkers selling handicap cards with the winners picked by some racetrack tout. These cards sold for 25 cents. The bookmakers did not try to hide their rolls. They reaped a bountiful harvest.

He Took It to Heart.

Alexandria, Ind., Oct. 23.—Despondent over his wife obtaining a divorce, and, also because she would not relieve him of paying alimony, Charles E. Ball, age fifty-one, a glass worker, committed suicide at the home of his former wife.

A WHITE SLAVE INQUIRY NOW ON

Champion Pugilist On the Rack at Chicago.

WHITE GIRL CHIEF WITNESS

After Much Persuasion Miss Lucille Cameron Consented to Appear Before the Federal Grand Jury and Tell of Her Relations With Jack Johnson, Who Is Under Bond in Chicago on the Charge of Abduction.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—When it summoned Miss Lucille Cameron, the nineteen-year-old white girl from Minneapolis, alleged to have been abducted by the negro, to testify, the federal grand jury took a hand in the affairs of pugilist Jack Johnson. The government hopes through the inquiry to establish the charge that the prize fighter has violated the Mann act by causing the girl, and perhaps other girls, to be brought to Chicago from other states illegally.

After much persuasion on the part of the mother of the girl and other women who have become interested in the case, Miss Cameron took the witness stand after she had been brought to Chicago from Rockford, where she was being held under heavy bond. After she had been in the witness chair for more than an hour she became hysterical and fainted, requiring the services of two physicians and halting the examination.

The girl is said to have given the grand jury considerable information concerning the white slave traffic.

As a result of an investigation it is said the government has gained information that there are several women who make a business of procuring white girls for prosperous negroes.

Denounced by His Race.

Washington, Oct. 23.—At a meeting of several hundred negroes here last night resolutions were adopted declaring Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, a disgrace to his race and an outcast, "now and forevermore."

BATTLE IMMINENT

Mexican Federal Troops Proceed to Center of Diaz Revolt.

Mexico City, Oct. 23.—Eight trains bringing the troops of General Blaquet from the north, arrived here and left at once for Vera Cruz. Four hundred Coahuila volunteers who composed part of the force remained here. General Blaquet has 1,400 men and sixty-three officers, with two cannon and two rapid-fire guns.

In an interview General Blaquet was good-natured and hopeful, but reticent as to his plans.

Government officials announced later that the federals had entered Vera Cruz after a bloody combat, but railroad men say the government troops have not left Tejeria and Santa Fe, the mobilization points, and absolutely authentic private messages say the situation at Vera Cruz is unchanged.

Robert Barr Dead.

London, Oct. 23.—Robert Barr, the famous Scotch novelist, is dead here. He had lived in England for a number of years. Barr began writing while working for the Detroit Free Press, for which paper he wrote under the pen name of "Luke Sharp."

Shelbyville, Ind., Oct. 23.—On charges of forgery Robert Hart, aged eighteen, and Elmer Harp, aged twenty-three, of Indianapolis, are in jail here, charged with passing a bogus check for $19.25 on the First National bank.

Gunboat Goes Aground.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 23.—Loaded with provisions and ammunition for the cruisers Des Moines and Tacoma, now in Mexican waters, the gunboat Nashville ran aground near Bush Bluff Lightship and is stuck fast in the mud.

The Deadly Grade Crossing.

Ft. Wayne, Ind., Oct. 23.—Charles Teuch, forty-two years old, was instantly killed at a grade crossing when he was struck by an east-bound traction car on the Ft. Wayne and Northern Indiana line.

CONSERVATION OF GAME BIRDS

Prairie Chickens Are Thriving In Indiana.

EFFECT OF "CLOSED" LAW

Act of 1909 Prohibiting the Killing of Prairie Chickens For a Period of Six Years Has Resulted in Saving a Once Numberless Flock From Utter Extinction, and the Prairie Lands Are Rapidly Becoming Restocked.

Indianapolis, Oct. 23.—George W. Miles, commissioner of fisheries and game, has announced, following a series of investigations his deputies have been making, that a conservative estimate of the number of prairie chickens now in Indiana is 100,000. The counties about the Kankakee basin hold the majority of the game birds. In 1909 the legislature passed a bill prohibiting the shooting of prairie chickens at any time and the state department immediately took up the work of rebuilding the shattered numbers of the birds throughout the state. The law extends for six years and in 1914, Mr. Miles said, it is probable the legislature will be asked to open a very short season for the chicken hunters, if any at all.

The farmers in the northern counties have been co-operating with the state department in its attempts to prevent the extermination of the birds. Mr. Miles said. This year deputies on motorcycles have patrolled the counties the birds haunt and have run down every hunter found illegally shooting the game.

Few persons in the state realize that such a "harvest" of the birds has been nurtured in the northern counties, the state official said. Mr. Miles said the plans of the state department contemplate allowing a very short open season on the birds at the expiration of the "closed" law. A small bag limit and the shutting out of the birds from markets of the state will aid in keeping them here in large numbers. Mr. Miles said. Because the same principles have been followed with regard to the quail in Indiana, those birds are slowly increasing in numbers, the commissioner said.

WITNESSES CALLED

Committee Summons Beveridge and Several Others to Washington.

Indianapolis, Oct. 23.—Albert J. Beveridge, John F. Hayes, his former private secretary; L. G. Rothschild and Larz Whitcomb of this city, and Henry B. Pettit of Wabash, have been summoned to Washington to testify before the senate campaign contribution investigating committee. The men called were directed to bring with them all books, papers and documents relating to the handling of Republican campaign money in Indiana in the campaigns of 1904 and 1908, and any information they may possess regarding expenditures in behalf of any candidate for office in the two campaigns.

It is understood that the senate committee wishes to inquire into the Beveridge campaign fund of 1904. George W. Perkins testified before the committee that Beveridge returned to him $10,000 which he sent the former senator for use in his campaign that year. When Perkins was pressed by the committee to learn how much more, if any, than $10,000 he had sent to Beveridge, the only answer the committee could get was that he did not remember. The committee wishes to know whether a larger amount was sent and whether a part of it was used in the Beveridge campaign.

Illegal Registration Charged.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 23.—Deputy sheriffs have started out with bench warrants for the arrest of forty persons who were indicted by the Vigo county grand jury for alleged illegal registration. The indictments were returned against "voters" who registered from Precinct D of the Sixth ward, but it is not believed many will be found, as they registered under assumed names.

Wouldn't Trust the Cars.

Ft. Wayne, Ind., Oct. 23.—Mrs. Margaret Carroll, age eighty-one, who died here yesterday, had never ridden on a railway. She was born in Ireland, came to America when an infant and made the trip from the seaboard to Ft. Wayne by boat and overland wagon seventy-seven years ago. Mrs. Carroll had always refused to travel even for a short distance on a train.

Found Dead in Vacant House.

Milan, Ind., Oct. 23.—The body of a man was found in a vacant house near this place. The coroner pronounced death due to natural causes. The man was about thirty-five years old, of light complexion and about five feet ten inches in height. The only mark about the clothing was H. H. O. on his linen.

Auto Falls Into Creek.

Attica, Ind., Oct. 23.—Dashing along the highway at forty miles an hour an automobile containing Frank Judy, aged twenty-two, of West Lebanon, and a boy friend, ran off the bridge a half mile west of this city and dropped into the creek. Judy suffered injuries that are expected to prove fatal.

PROSPECTS FOR LEAGUE BRIGHT

Rushville Team Has Chance to Land
Berth in State Association
Next Year.

DAL WILLIAMS HERE TODAY

In Conference With Manager Maibaugh Concerning Proposition—
Will Form New Circuit.

Dal Williams of Newcastle, manager of the Maxwell ball team was here this morning in conference with P. A. Maibaugh, manager of the local team, in regards to placing Rushville in the Indiana State league next year. The proposition met with favor here and the chances are that when the base ball curtain is rung up next spring Rushville will be found in the list of cities comprising the circuit.

The State league plays only Sunday ball and the season just ended was very successful. The proposed changes in the circuit are due to an effort to secure cities which are closer together and form a more compact league. Under the proposal Kokomo, Elwood and one of the traveling teams will be dropped. The objection to Kokomo and Elwood is that the towns are too far distant for the rest of the teams.

The league as outlined by Dal Williams would include six clubs namely, Newcastle, Muncie, Richmond, Connersville, Rushville and one traveling team. These six clubs are by no means a certainty but as a working basis, Williams is figuring on them. The other cities will be visited and then a meeting called to perfect an organization. The towns named would make a fine circuit and with a classy article of ball the league could be made a great "little" affair.

Manager Maibaugh told Williams the league looked good to him, and to go ahead with the organization. Rushville has never been represented in a league and in order to make it go, support will have to be given the movement. That this city will support a ball team was clearly demonstrated this year. After the sport had been dead for four or five years it was revived and a winning team put in the field. For this reason it is believed the league would pay in this city.

SIXTY-THREE YOUNG MEN AT NOON LUNCH

E. C. Miller of Biedervolf Party
Talk on "Life's Voyage" Pointing Out Good Morals.

KINGS DAUGHTERS THANKED

Sixty-three young business men were entertained at the noon luncheon, held today in connection with the Biedervolf tabernacle meetings over Conroy's restaurant. The Kings Daughters of the United Presbyterian church served a fine meal, which could hardly be termed a lunch because of its proportions. The young men extended a vote of thanks to the young women.

E. C. Miller, of the tabernacle company, made a terse, thirty-minute talk on "Life's Voyage." He told a story of a near shipwreck at sea, with the moral that one should never start on a voyage without a chart and compass. So it is in the voyage of life, he declared, a young man should never set out with out a chart and compass, the word of Jesus Christ. He urged young men not to sin, as he pointed out that in so doing they could command better positions, which they should want to do as this is the age of the young man. He closed his interesting talk with the story of President McKinley's celebrated message, "Tell mother I'll be there," when she had summoned him to her bedside, as an example of what a son's love for his mother should be. James Heaton sang three songs and was applauded.

but this was the fault of inspectors, not of the election commission.

This year a special effort is to be made to have every inspector hurry to the circuit court room with his return as soon as the count has been completed and signed. This will not only insure information as to the result of the election at the earliest possible moment but will be in strict conformity to the law. No inspector has a right to take the returns home with him and wait until the next day to report to the board of canvassers. His duty is to take the returns to the court house as soon as the count is completed and signed.

The three commissioners will meet on or about October 25 to arrange the county ballot and prepare for its printing. As Clerk Norris understands Monday, October 21, was the last day on which certificates of nominations can be filed.

The ballots and other supplies will be delivered to the inspectors on Saturday, November 2. All the supplies will be in the county clerk's office, and inspectors are required to call there for them. Shortly before the election the commissioners expect to issue a statement through the newspapers setting out and detailed information as to the manner in which election supplies will be distributed and giving information as to how returns should be made. In addition to this, the commission hopes to arrange for a meeting with all the inspectors in the county on the Saturday preceding the election. At this meeting specific instructions touching their duties will be given the inspectors. In this way, it is thought, every point in the election law will be made perfectly clear to the inspectors and a prompt report of the result in every precinct insured.

POTATO CROP IS ABOUT HARVESTED

Yield and Quality, Taken Whole
County Over, Is Said to be
Best in Years.

PUMPKINS ARE PLENTIFUL

The potato crop in this county is about harvested. The yield and quality is the best in twelve years. Some yielded at the rate of two hundred bushels an acre. Corn husking is early on account of the light husks some ears being almost bare. Some farmers will commence cribbing within a few days. Some fields will yield one hundred bushels an acre, but the average will be forty to ninety bushels. Although several frosts have fallen, the tomato crop remains unharmed and the fruits continue to ripen. Not for years has there been a better crop of pumpkins in Rush county. Kiefer pears are about the only fruit that is plentiful.

HIS REAL NAME
IS DISCOVEREDEd Sloan is None Other Than Edward Lingenfelder, Who is Implica-ted in Bigamy Case.

FAILS TO SECURE DIVORCE

Marries Local Woman, Taking it For Granted That First Wife Took Legal Proceedings.

That Edward Sloan of West First street is none other than Edward Lingenfelder was brought to light in Indianapolis when he was called to help straighten out the marriage tangle of Mrs. Lola Isaacs of Columbus, Ohio, and George A. Isaacs. Instead of clearing the situation, Lingenfelder or Sloan as he is known here only made matters worse and instead of only one bigamist there now appears to be three.

The trouble was started when Mrs. Lola Isaacs, George Isaacs' first wife appeared in Indianapolis and had her husband arrested on a bigamy charge. The second Mrs. Isaacs turned out to be Lingenfelder's first wife and neither had secured a divorce before remarrying. So far Isaacs is the only one charged with bigamy.

Sloan, or Lingenfelder, which is his real name, is employed at the I. & C. car barns and has been in this city probably two years. He has always gone under the name of Sloan and was married to Barbara Brown under this name. The license was not secured here but they have resided here since their marriage. Although Lingenfelder is guilty of bigamy, he claims it was not intentional as he believed his wife had secured a divorce. The second Mrs. Isaacs, who was Lingenfelder's first wife thought he had secured a divorce, while Isaacs believed his first wife dead.

The situation is a peculiar one and caused quite a mix-up. Lingenfelder left here Sunday evening, being called to Indianapolis. He returned last night and is again working at the car barns. He will make an effort to get out of the difficulty and avoid the criminal end of the case. It is his intention to file suit here for divorce from his first wife, the present Mrs. Isaacs and if successful will then remarry his present wife, thus complying to the legal side of the case. The divorce proceedings will probably be filed in a few days.

FIRST MEETING IS HELD

Parent-Teachers Club of Fairview
School Hears Program.

The first meeting of the newly organized Parent-Teachers club of the Fairview school was held in the school house last night. An interesting program was rendered. A piano solo was given by Miss Doris Saxon, and an address was made by the president of the club, Prof. E. E. Jeffries. Mrs. Cora Saxon read a paper on "Home Training of the Child," and Irvin Harmer, second teacher in the Fairview school, led the discussion. The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday evening, November 19.

SHE ASKS $6000 ALIMONY

Blanche Cassidy Files Suit For Divorce From John Cassidy.

Blanche Cassidy has filed suit for divorce from her husband, John T. Cassidy and demands $6000 alimony. Cassidy is a wellknown farmer of Noble township. Mrs. Cassidy alleges that he is an habitual drunkard and makes this the basis of the complaint. She sets out that his estate is worth $12,000 and asks $6000 as her share. They have no children.

CORN HUSKER IS NOW COMPLETEDSeveral Tests This Fall Prove The Invention is Success Excepting Few Minor Changes

LOCAL MEN PERFECTED IT

After three years of labor and experimenting, it appears that the corn husking machine which has been invented, patented and built by local men, is almost perfect. It has been given several trials this fall, and with the exception of a few minor changes, it is now as it will be manufactured. There have been no breaks and the parts have held up well in the several tests.

The machine is drawn easily by two horses, mounted on its own trucks, and the machinery is propelled by a gasoline motor, which operates the snapping and husking roles and elevators. It husks the corn in good marketable condition and elevates it into wagon which is driven at its side at the rate of fifty to sixty bushels per hour.

The local men interested in its are Charles Younger, the inventor, and A. P. Walker and M. E. Newhouse. They are undecided as to how it will be manufactured, whether they will form a company and incorporate or have it manufactured by manufacturers who have expressed a desire to do so.

WATSON SPECIAL
MAY NOT BE RUNShelbyville Republicans Dislike Idea
Since He is Scheduled to Speak
There Monday.

OTHER POLITICAL EVENTS

It is doubtful whether or not the special train will be run to Richmond next Saturday night when James E. Watson speaks there. Shelbyville Republicans are not very anxious to go since it has been announced that Mr. Watson will be in Shelbyville next Monday night. He will speak here before the close of the campaign but a number from here will likely go anyway. Mr. Watson spoke in Muncie last night.

Will M. Sparks and W. R. Jinnett speak at Shiveley's Corner Thursday night, and Mark Forkner of Newcastle, Chauncey Duncan of Greenfield, and James K. Mason of Connersville will speak at Falmouth the same night.

Gurlef Jensen, Bull Moose candidate for congress, will speak at the Coliseum Friday night, and will fill speaking dates in the county the next four days.

D. W. McKee and John D. Megee will make Democratic speeches at Glenwood tonight.

MACHINERY OF
ELECTION MOVESLocal Commission Has Charge of Printing of County Ballots and Distribution of All.

TAKES PLACE NOVEMBER 2

Inspectors Have No Right to Delay
Returns From Their Precincts
Under The Law.

The election machinery in Rush county this fall will be in the hands of a commission composed of three men—County Clerk Vern Norris, who becomes a member by virtue of his office, Howard E. Barrett, representing the Democratic party, and E. B. Thomas, representing the Republican party.

It will be the duty of this commission to have charge of the printing, counting and sealing of the county ballots, and of the distribution of these and the state ballots and all other documentary election supplies to the inspectors throughout the county. It will also be the duty of the board to canvass the returns of the election and to certify the result of the same to the secretary of state.

The county ballots will be printed by the Republican Company, under the direct supervision of the election commissioners. The state ballots, which also contain the names of the candidates for presidential electors, will be printed at Indianapolis under the supervision of the state election commission. The state ballots will be sent to Clerk Norris about ten days before the election. The local commission will have charge of the counting of the state ballots and of the apportioning of them among the precincts.

The law defining the duties of election commissioners is stringent. It throws every possible safeguard around election supplies. The election commission must use every possible precaution to prevent any ballot escaping from its possession. The forms from which the ballots are printed must be closely watched while in use and must be torn down as soon as the requisite number of ballots have been printed. The supplies for every precinct must be put up by the commission, must be securely sealed and must be delivered only to the persons authorized to receive them.

It is assumed that the state ballot will contain six tickets—the Democratic, Republican, Prohibition, Progressive, Socialist and Socialist Labor. It is thought that the Rush county ballots will contain only five tickets—the Democratic, Republican, Prohibition, Progressive and Socialist. The law requires that the first and second places on the ballot shall be given to the Democratic and Republican tickets respectively. The order in which the other tickets shall be placed on the county ballot, it is understood, is optional with the election commissioners. The State election commission has placed the Prohibitionist third and Bull Moosers fourth on the State ballot. The local commission expected to decide the position of the three lower tickets today.

The three men who will comprise the Rush county election commission are all experienced in the work, having served in like capacity in many preceding elections. Rush county has never had a scandal growing out of the handling of election supplies in a general election. There has never been any question raised touching the regularity of the acts of the election commission. Once or twice there have been irritating delays in getting in the returns from certain precincts.

MAN AND 4 BOYS
ARE SENT TO JAILGet Sentences Ranging From 10 to 30 Days For Contributing to Girls' Delinquency.

GIRL IS SENT TO CLERMONT

Widespread Investigation in Juvenile Court Reveals Sordid Life in Some Homes.

Four boys and a man were sentenced to the county jail in juvenile court late yesterday and today by Judge John A. Tittsworth, for terms ranging from ten to thirty days, on the charge of contributing to the delinquency of girls under seventeen years of age, and one girl was sent to the Indiana Industrial School for Girls at Clermont, in the suburbs of Indianapolis.

The boys sentenced to jail, and their terms and ages are as follows: John Barnett, age sixteen, son of Mrs. Will Wolf, thirty days; Ed. Campbell, age eighteen, son of Mrs. Martha Campbell, thirty days; Chase Clifford, age nineteen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Clifford, thirty days; William Joyce, age twenty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Joyce, ten days. Oliver Leisner, age thirty-seven, was sent to jail for ten days.

Tom Joyce retained Young & Young as attorneys in an effort to appeal the case to a higher court. Judge Tittsworth placed the bond at two hundred dollars. Mr. Joyce said that he could furnish the bail as soon as the appeal bond was prepared. However, the officials, when they consulted the statute, discovered that it was impossible under the law to appeal from the sentence, and the Joyce boy will have to serve out his sentence of ten days.

Minnie Weevie, age sixteen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weevie, who reside across the race from the I. & C. power house, was sent to the girls' school for incorrigibility. She will be taken to Clermont at once.

Margaret Dinwiddie, age fifteen years, daughter of Marion Dinwiddie, was before the court and the evidence she gave caused conviction of some of the boys. She, however, was allowed to go free, but was warned that strict watch would be kept over her conduct, and if she does not act as she should, she will be sent to the industrial school.

Judge Tittsworth recommended to Prosecutor Wallace Morgan that he file a charge of incorrigibility against the Dinwiddie girl in the light of the testimony she had given in juvenile court. The prosecutor argued that he would like to keep the girl here as a material witness in some criminal cases along this line which may be brought.

The court held that the girl was incorrigible, judging from her actions and testimony, and the board of women who have been looking after delinquent children here also believed that she should be sentenced. It is understood that the girl today tried to make arrangements with the prosecutor and the court to be allowed to go to Dayton, Ohio to live with her sister.

The testimony of little Sylvia Crawford, age thirteen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Crawford, implicated some of the boys who were sent to jail. She was set free because the court and prosecutor decided that she was not beyond redemption. Her father promised that he would try more in the future to see that she was at home at night, and that he would keep closer watch on her. She was warned, also, that she might follow in the path of the Weevie girl if she did not behave.

The whole investigation of the juvenile court—and it is not over yet by any means—originated with the charge of incorrigibility filed against the Weevie girl. This was called to the attention of the authorities when she ran away to Connersville with Earl Hunter a few weeks ago. She and the Hunter boy were hauled up in court, and in mayor's court, he was sentenced to jail for ten days and fined ten dollars and costs, which makes a total of about thirty days which he is serving out in jail.

The case of the girl was transferred to the juvenile court and she was first arraigned before Judge Blair. He appointed John A. Tittsworth special juvenile judge to investigate the case and those tributary to it when the term of the circuit court closed.

At first the Weevie girl was reluctant about disclosing any facts about the sordid life, that she, although only a mere child, had been living. Finally, she was persuaded to tell all she knew, and her testimony resulted in several of the boys coming into juvenile court and being sentenced on the girl's story as well as their own admissions.

The juvenile court investigation brought out a deplorable condition of affairs that has been existing here which would hardly be thought to be the case in even a much larger city. The stories of midnight escapades in various places, such as the parks and other public places were forced from the lips of the youngsters.

The juvenile investigation has resulted in the resolution of the police to enforce the curfew law more rigidly. The boys have been running wild on the streets after eight o'clock, which practice is to be stopped.

In each investigation the juvenile court officials have gone into the homes of the delinquent children and they have, without exceptions, found that the conditions are bad and that not much blame can be attached to the children. It seems to be first of all, juvenile court officials say, a problem of agencies that confronts them. In most cases they are children of parents who, either on one side or the other, are affected, generally physically, with some hereditary disease. In most cases either father or mother are in such condition that they should not be allowed to have offsprings.

The family of Charles Weevie, from which Minnie Weevie comes, is a case in point. There are ten children in the family, now and three have died. It has been noted also that these cases that have come to juvenile court arises in homes where there are large families. The Weevie family.

MART CRAMER IS DEAD FROM DROPSYWell Known Andersonville Man Expires After Four Months' Illness—Widow and 3 Children

RELATIVE OF JOE COWING

Mart Cramer, a brother-in-law of Joe Cowing of this city, died at his home in Andersonville yesterday of dropsy. He was sixty-six years old and has been in poor health for four months. For the last few weeks little hope has been held out for his recovery. Mr. Cramer has been engaged for a number of years as a teamster and was well known in the "neck" of Rush, Franklin and Fayette counties. He was a member of the tribe of Red Men at Andersonville.

Mr. Cramer is survived by a widow and three children: Mrs. A. I. Clark of Morristown, Mrs. Nellie Scott of Andersonville, and Miss Wilma Cramer, who lived at home. The funeral will probably be held at the home tomorrow, and burial will take place in the Baptist cemetery near Andersonville.

PREACHES NOT TO
SOOTHE SINNERSDr. Biederwolf's Sermon on "Repentance" is Pungent, Piercing Phil-lipic Against Sin.

PUTS IT UP TO THE PREACHERS

Interest Increases as Close of Evangelistic Campaign Nears—
Prayer Tomorrow Morning.

Church bells will ring tomorrow morning at nine o'clock for three minutes, calling the people of Rushville to prayer.

Much interest was displayed at the opening of the last week of services at the tabernacle last night, when Dr. Biederwolf preached on "Repentance." With good weather this week it is expected that people will rally to the support of the revival and great results will be obtained, not only for the present but for future.

Special music has been arranged for tonight's services. Plans are going steadily forward for the mammoth parade and demonstration Saturday night. Last night's sermon was in part as follows:

"I am sure I could preach on a more popular subject tonight but I am just as sure I couldn't preach on a more important one.

"This is not to be one of those sweet consoling sort of sermons that seduces a sinner into a soothing sort of satisfaction with himself but it is to be under God, if I can make it so, a pungent, piercing philippic against sin and a passionate, pleading importunity to penitence and to the pardoning provisions of a patient and merciful God.

"I wonder if we take a poll of the preachers here tonight—if we would take a poll of all the preachers of the land, how long it would be since some of them preached a sermon on repentance. I think it up to the preachers to educate the people on what they ought to hear and not to allow the pews to set the standard for the pulpit. People don't want their sins condemned of course. They are willing to have you shoot it into the other fellow as long as you don't disturb them.

"Of course people don't like to be showed up. That ain't human nature. If you went to a photographer and he made you look exactly like you, you'd never go back to him. You'd say, 'Why, I don't look like that at all.' Well, it looks like you. But the photographer is on to his job and so he takes the crows feet out of your face and the pimples off your chin and the wart off your nose, and then you're so pleased with it you tell him it is such fine work he ought to put it in his glass case downstairs in front of his shop. People don't want their pet sins condemned.

"We've got men in our churches who are sitting in the pews with the price of tenements let to shame in their pockets; houses where girls, trapped by some lecherous dog of a man, offer up what is left of body and soul on the altar of masculine lust and send the contamination of their polluted, diseased bodies through the young men of this town into your best homes from which some day they will lead your daughters in marriage to damn their life and pollute their offspring with their own poisoned blood.

"We have women sitting in our churches clad in silks that represent sent the profits of the distillery and

KIAMIL PASHA

President of Turkish Council
a Power in the Present War.

POWERS PLANNING TO PUT A STOP TO WAR

Will Intervene After Battle of Adrianople.

London, Oct. 23.—At all points except Mustapha Pasha, where there has been heavy fighting, the advance of the Bulgarians upon Adrianople where the most important battle of the Balkan war will in all probability be fought has been stopped. King Ferdinand is moving his pawns with caution. He realizes as do all military men in Europe, the importance of the undertaking. Next is expected that the powers will come forward, after the inevitable battle around Adrianople, and take extraordinary measures to induce the victor in this contest to accept moderate terms and end the trouble in the Balkans then and there.

But while the Bulgars are coming gingerly to the outskirts of Adrianople, the Servians are having their fill of fighting in their march on Uskub. They find themselves opposed by 40,000 Arman tribesmen, supported by a thousand Turkish regulars and four batteries of artillery.

From the Montenegrins comes word that they have been bombarding Tarasch for the past four days. Scutari, it appears, is not so easy to capture as the troops of King Nicholas have thought. The Greeks are bombarding Provesa, at the entrance to the Gulf of Arta, and have landed troops south-east of Salonika.

The Ottoman troops are attacking the Bulgars all along the line from Adrianople to Kirk-Killesseh, where the fighting is hottest. Not only has the Bulgarian advance been very suddenly checked, but the Bulgars find themselves in a hostile country with their lines of communication seriously endangered. Kalimandja and Tundja are said to have fallen to the Turks and the Bulgarian loss is reported to be heavy.

Seized a British Steamship
Athens, Oct. 23.—The British steamship Penpol was seized at sea by a Greek torpedo boat and brought to Piraeus.

The Penpol arrived at Cardiff on Sept. 29. It is possible that she had a cargo of coal for Turkey.

Fired on Christian Villages.
Athens, Oct. 23.—The Turkish regulars in Epirus have fired on the Christian villages of Karoki and Limniz. King George and Premier Venizelos will visit the front shortly. The Greek fleet is reported to have captured a Turkish transport full of troops.

SELECTED SITE

Governor Marshall Picked Place For Indiana Building.

San Francisco, Oct. 23.—Governor Thomas R. Marshall, of Indiana, interrupted his campaign here yesterday to select a site for the Indiana building on the grounds of the Panama-Pacific exposition. Governor Marshall, who made two addresses here last night, went to the fair ground from a luncheon tendered him by the exposition directors. He was escorted by a troop of cavalry to the site which is on the Presidio military reservation, and before taking possession, reviewed a parade of two regiments of United States troops in his honor. A large number of members of the Indiana State Society of Indiana were present at the ceremony.

Grand Jury Investigating.
Tipton, Ind., Oct. 23.—The grand jury is investigating the case of R. O. Emerson, who shot and killed Robert Baughman ten days ago. Emerson tipped off Baughman as a safecracker and helped in the pursuit of him, finally killing him when he took refuge under a house.

PURDUE MARKS IMPORTANT STEP

Will Offer Short Course Next Two Months For Fruit Growers in Indiana.

FOR MEN WHO RUN ORCHARDS

Marking an important step in the education of fruit growers of Indiana, Purdue University will offer for the first time a short course, opening Monday, Dec. 2. The course will extend through to Dec. 14. Every instructor will be an expert in his special line, and the problems of the orchardist will be discussed from every standpoint.

The course is designed primarily for nature men who own and operate their own orchards. Each season sees an advance in knowledge of the best means of controlling the enemies of the fruit crop and managing the orchard. New and improved spray materials are introduced as the result of previous experiments, and investigations and the means of making and applying old remedies from year to year.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

THE CRIME OF CRIMES.

(New York World.)

Theodore Roosevelt has been identified with the Republican party for thirty years. He is leaving it at a time when the party is not only less corrupt, but when it is more responsive to public opinion than at any other period during those three decades.

The Republican party was good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in 1882 when he wanted to go to the assembly, although at the election that fall the people of New York repudiated it by a majority of 200,000.

The Republican party was good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in 1889, when he wanted to be a civil service commissioner, although the chairman of its national committee was Matthew Stanley Quay.

The Republican party was good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in 1897 when he wanted to be assistant secretary of the navy, and obtained that office by the favor of Hanna, Platt and Quay.

The Republican party was good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in 1898 when he wanted to be governor of New York and was willing to help Platt's corrupt machine in return for the nomination.

The Republican party was good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in 1908 when the leaders interposed no objection to his nominating himself for president.

The Republican party was good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in 1908 when William H. Taft was nominated.

The Republican party would have been good enough for Theodore Roosevelt in 1912 if it had nominated him for a third term, and Mr. Roosevelt would have welcomed the support of every man and every interest now supporting Mr. Taft.

A new party is necessary not because the Republican party is hopelessly corrupt or hopelessly reactionary, but because the Republican party refused to nominate "ME." That is the crime of crimes. Because of that iniquity the Republican party must be destroyed.

Driver of Murder Car Gives Hard Blow to Becker's Case.

THE BECKER DEFENSE SUSTAINS HARD BLOW

Driver of Murder Car Corroborates Jack Rose.

New York, Oct. 23.—Before 11 o'clock tomorrow morning Lieutenant Becker's jury will retire to decide whether or not he is guilty of the murder of Herman Rosenthal. Today is being devoted entirely to the summing up. Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock Justice Goff will deliver his charge to the jury.

The defense rested its case without calling Becker as a witness. The case of the defense sagged to an end after their last witnesses had made admissions hurtful to Lieutenant Becker's cause and discouraging to his lawyers. And then the district attorney as a final blow hurled against them the testimony of Willie Shapiro, the chauffeur of the murder car, who, bending to the persuasions of his lawyer, broke away from the gunmen, who cursed him as he left them in the Tombs, and corroborated, on the witness stand, everything that Jack Rose had testified to about rounding up the murderers and about their departure from Webber's gambling house to kill Rosenthal.

Shapiro's decision at the last moment to let the gunmen, Jack Sullivan and Becker shift for themselves, was a shocking blow to the defense. They had tried to get Shapiro to testify for Becker. In the Tombs the chauffeur had been urged to keep his mouth shut at least. But his lawyer advised him that if he hoped to save himself from the electric chair he had better volunteer to tell the truth. So Shapiro made an affidavit covering his connection with the murder. It was not only a detailed corroboration of the testimony of Rose and of the other informers as to the movements of the murderers, but of their accusation that Becker was the director of the murder.

Girl Slain by Italians.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 23.—An unknown young woman who is supposed to have lived in Water street in this city, was taken in an auto to a lonely spot on the road from Bridgeport to Derby early last evening by five Italians and shot to death by one of them. Three men believed to have been members of the party are under arrest.

Fined Despite Victim's Protest.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 23.—Mrs. Oda Jones was seized with a nightmare while sleeping, and grabbing a pair of scissors stabbed her husband. The screams of the husband awakened the neighbors. The police were called and the woman was arrested. In spite of the protests of the husband Mrs. Jones was fined $25 and costs.

WHOSE OX IS GORED.

Muncie Press: The fellows who were so ready to swallow the unfounded stories against Jim Watson four years ago hold up their hands with holy horror this year over the circulation of the perfectly true tales about Albert J. Beveridge. It all depends on whose ox is gored, you know.

Wanderings In Decapolis. Mark vii:31-viii:10.

Golden Text.—He hath done all things well; he maketh both the deaf to hear and the dumb to speak. Mark vii:37.

(1.) Verse 31—Describe the route Jesus took from the coast of Tyre and Sidon to the sea of Galilee.

(2.) Why did Jesus stay so short a time in one place?

(3.) Verses 32-35—What is the extent of the loss borne by one who is both deaf and dumb?

(4.) What is being done and what more can be done for the deaf and dumb of this country than we are doing?

(5.) Why did Jesus use such an elaborate process in curing this man when most of his other miracles were so simple?

(6.) Would you say that Jesus used these signs as the only way to convey to the patient what he was going to do for him? Why?

(7.) Why did Jesus perform this miracle in private when most of his other miracles were done in public?

(8.) Did Jesus perform this miracle by his own innate power or by the power of God in answer to his "looking up into heaven?"

(9.) Should we bring our sick ones to Jesus today in expectation that he will heal them or should we use the means to that end which God has given us in nature?

(10.) Verse 30—Which is the greater sinner, and why, he who tells things God wishes not to be made known or he who keeps to himself what he ought to publish abroad?

(12.) Disobedience always results in evil. What evil results probably came from this act of disobedience to Jesus' command?

(13.) Verse 37—If our historic vision of this miracle were as acute as that of the eyewitnesses what would our estimate of it be?

(14.) Mention if you can any word or act of Jesus which would prevent you from saying, "He hath done all things well."

(15.) What man in all history stirs today the most astonishment, and why is it so? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(16.) viii:1-4—What evidence is there that the feeding of the four thousand is not a variation of the account of the feeding of the five thousand?

(17.) What reason is there to suppose that Jesus sympathizes with those in need today as he did in that day?

(18.) Notwithstanding that God does not supply our needs now miraculously, does he supply them surely and may we absolutely trust him for the future? Why?

(20.) What shape does Christ's "compassion on the multitude" take today?

(21.) Is time spent in the service of Christ ever forgotten by him and is it ever profitless? Why?

(22.) Verse 5—What proof is there that our ability, our opportunity and our resources are ample for our full duty?

(23.) Verses 6-10—What are the advantages of system and order in both our sacred and secular matters?

(24.) What better is food after it has been "blessed" than before?

(25.) What are the evils of waste and the gain of economy?

Lesson for Sunday, Nov. 3, 1912. The Sign and the Leaven. Mark viii:11-26.

KIND OF STAR.

Muncie Press: It is very kind of the Indianapolis Star to give Colonel Durbin any votes in its straw poll for governor.

WHAT'S THE BOOT?

Muncie Press: "The purpose of the Progressive party is to displace the Penroses" cried Old Hi Johnson at Philadelphia. With Flinnus, presumably. What do we get to boot?

HYPOCRITES.

Muncie Press: No man in America has been so unjustly abused, so cruelly mangled, so viciously assailed as President Wm. Howard Taft, and by the very hypocrites who are now moralizing about the attacks of yellow journalism and yellow politics.

MARATHON UP A MOUNTAIN

Test of Endurance for Vigorous Swiss Athletes in Race Up the Stanserhorn.

A Marathon race up a mountain in the Swiss Alps is a test of endurance to which only the most vigorous among professional mountaineers would care to submit themselves.

The first event of this kind took place the other day, and despite the obvious difficulties, proved a great success. The mountain selected was the Stanserhorn, 6,236 feet above the sea level, and the difference in altitude to be covered was roughly 4,700 feet; the starting point, the little town of Stans, being some 1,500 feet above the sea.

About 1,500 spectators took the funicular railway up the mountain-side, or made a leisurely ascent on foot to cheer the winner, who proved to be Karl Hug, a young Swiss Alpinist of Alpach, his time being 1 hour and 4 minutes. The second arrival took eight minutes longer, and the last of the 52 competitors finished 45 minutes later.

The promoter of the race was a wealthy German who has offered valuable prizes and who rather fancied himself for the championship. He was greeted with sympathetic cheers when he arrived, puffing and blowing at the goal, half an hour after the last competitor, and innocently asked "if any of them had been sighted yet."—New York Sun.

AVIATORS IN THE DESERT

Enthusiasts Have Made Plans for a Regular Service Across the Sands of Sahara.

The Desert of Sahara seems to have a fascination for the aviators, who have made ambitious plans for establishing a regular service—particularly for military purposes—across the sands to Timbuctu.

One of the chief obstacles is the difficulty of reaching a machine that has come to grief. The sand in many parts of the desert is so soft that it is almost impassable, except by the broad-footed camels.

One of the enthusiasts at Bliskra has devised an automobile for desert work that seems to promise a solution. It is driven by an air propeller, like those on aeroplanes, and is mounted on a triangular skeleton body, each corner being supported by two large-tired wheels which are so mounted that they can adapt themselves to a very irregular surface.

The entire weight, including a 50-horse power engine, is only 700 pounds.

Mineral Wealth in Ireland.

A remarkable discovery of silver and lead has been made at Clew, near Keady, County Armagh, Ireland, by a farmer named Conlon. While working in a field the other day he turned up a piece of bright metal, which he put in his pocket and afterwards placed on the mantel shelf in the kitchen, thinking little more about it. Subsequently an old miner who had worked in Cornwall, when visiting the house, examined the ore, and advised Mr. Conlon to obtain expert advice upon it. This was done, and the analytical tests showed that the ore contained 5 per cent. of pure silver and 35 per cent. lead of first quality. A mining expert and some other gentlemen visited the place, and as a result of boring operations a bed of solid ore was, it is said, struck just a little over five feet from the surface. Steps are now being taken with a view to obtaining the mining rights of the land.

Ghost Gave the Tip.

An extraordinary story of a gambling "tip" from the regions of spirits is that of Signor Crotta, the station-master at Cicignano, near Naples. Signor Crotta speculated one franc at a weekly lottery, and now finds himself in consequence the lucky winner of $120,000. On learning the good tidings Crotta's first task was to telegraph to the directorate of the State Railways his resignation. He is a married man, and has a daughter who is a local schoolmistress. The station-master is also setting apart a sum for masses on behalf of his dead aunt, whose ghost, he avows, appeared to him in the early hours of the fateful morning bidding him gamble on four numbers which she revealed to him, all of which eventually proved lucky ones.

Wandering Wireless Waves.

A curious phenomenon in connection with wireless telegraphy has been observed in the neighborhood of the Clichy-Levallois railway station, near Paris. In proximity to the railway line some telegraph lines were recently erected on columns fitted with ordinary insulators. The workmen occupied on the section experienced severe shocks when they touched the wires. Experiments were made to discover the cause of this phenomenon and as a result it was found that the currents were produced by Hertzian waves originating from the wireless telegraph station at the Eiffel tower.—Telegraph Age.

Seaweed Made Valuable.

It is estimated that those engaged in the industry of gathering seaweed and reducing it to gelatinous food in Japan alone number 600,000 persons. Within recent years seaweeds have been introduced into the English kitchen. The edible species, served with roast meats, have been found to be very palatable. Devonshire and Japanese seaweeds are employed largely in the London industry.

A GLADSOME QUIP.

Fort Wayne News: Just a few hours before Colonel Roosevelt was shot his distinguished opponent, Dr. Wilson, who "believes in appealing to reasons rather than to the passions of the voters," indulged in the following gladsome quip: "If I were a cartoonist I would draw a picture of the biggest monopolies in the country, standing in line, and in front of them, Theodore Roosevelt trying to lead them in a hallelujah chorus."

BEVERIDGE'S FACE.

Muncie Press: Senator Beveridge's face still decorates the lids of child labor cigar boxes. If it were either of his opponents who had sold his phiz for a mess of lithographs what a howl Beveridge would be setting up.

BULL MOOSE SNEER.

Muncie Press: The Indianapolis Star sneers at Samuel Ralston because he failed to tip an expectant barber at Connersville devoting a quarter of a column to the incident. The Star is conducting its campaign on so high a plane that it must feel like an aeronaut.

When you have a bad cold you want the best medicine obtainable so as to cure it with as little delay as possible. Snapshots on Democracy.

The Democratic party favors sending 48 boys instead of one big man as a policeman to make the trusts behave.

High cost of living is bad enough, but with good wages it is better than the soup houses and bread lines of 1893.

When you pick out a party to reform our financial system, better get one that in past years has known the difference between a dollar and a half dollar, also between a dollar and a piece of worthless paper.

Just as you can't have home stores in a place if people buy all their goods of stores in distant cities and mail order houses, so you can't have American factories if you buy your goods in Europe.

An example of the results of Democratic rule was given in the years 1893 to 1897. During this time the factories showed smokeless chimneys, dark windows, or curtailed production. Business men clung to the old dollar desperately, fearing that if they trusted it to the chances of commerce under Democratic rule, they would never see it again. Think this over, Mr. Voter, before voting the Democratic ticket Nov. 5!

Young men who are voting for the first time should reflect that the Democratic party's last job of tariff making was called a work of "perfidy and dishonor" by the last Democratic president. Do we want another of that kind?

The times call for a party looking toward the morning, with sympathy for the demands of the great world of modern business. A party whose eyes are still fixed on the ashes of Jefferson and Jackson is not apt to understand the needs of the business community.

Planning Purchases.

Buying goods for yourself or for the home can be done more efficiently by planning beforehand, like anything else in life. The newspaper reporter who hustles out to an interview without thinking over any of the questions he is going to ask, comes back with a lame story. The man who plans out his work in advance is the man who wins.

There are still some people who start out on a shopping foray with no preconceived plan, just entering the first store they see. That is all right if the cost of living does not bother you at all.

For people who must economize, a study of the newspaper advertising is absolutely essential before making a purchase of any importance.

The buyer for a business concern would be very lame if he closed a contract without having read what his trade paper has to say about the of this newspaper are the trade papers for the home.

A clever Republican of Joliet, writing to a follower of the third term candidate, says that "Onward, Christian Soldiers" has been succeeded by other hymns. "We are now singing," he says, "such hymns as 'Gathering the Sheaves,' and 'Yield Not to Temptation,' all Republicans are joining in 'Pull for the Shore' and 'We'll Anchor Bye and Bye.' On the night of election day we will chant 'Blest Be the Tie That Binds.' If Roosevelt succeeds in bringing about a Democratic victory, which he seems to be trying to do, we shall all sing a year from now, 'Rescue the Perishing,' because the country will be full of idle workmen and bread lines and soup-houses will be everywhere."

The department of justice has just issued a document enumerating the cases instituted under the Sherman anti-trust law since its enactment. This shows that only 44 cases, 25 criminal and 19 civil, were brought

Sam Sanderson Says:

That those of us who look with contempt on a flea should remember it is the only agency which ever got any work out of a dog.

during the seven and one-half years of President Roosevelt's occupancy of the White House, as compared with 66 cases, 39 criminal and 27 civil brought during the three and one-half years of President Taft's administration.

The condition and prosperity of the people and not theories are what count. Theories do not fill dinner baskets, find clothes for the kiddies, and place eatables on the table. Only Republican prosperity does all three.

They are talking of tearing down the jail where the Lawrence strike leaders are kept, but if they do there will probably be several other prisons still standing for those who do it.

If the presidential candidates are strictly prudent they will keep out of crowds, but it would no doubt be safe for them to address the Ladies' Aid Societies.

They are getting so ructionous in New York state as to expect to hold convention without asking Mr. Barnes and Mr. Murphy what boys should peddle popcorn among the delegates.

The good prices received for farm products will cause the farmers to vote for Mr. Taft.

Editorialettes

Progress is a porch climber, says Elbert Hubbard. What, then, are we to infer about the Progressive party?

The Bull Moosers, you know.

George Perkins says he never knew a man in public life to let loose of a dollar when he got it. Mr. Perkins thus condemns public men, and revelations in the senate investigation of the last few weeks reveal that Mr. Perkins has been doing a lot to reform public men by pouring hundreds of thousands of dollars into their laps for services rendered and to be rendered.

See the Frost, did you articulate?

Hardly, it was too light. Nothing to talk about, if we mention such trivial matters you say? Correct. Nothing to do but fill this column.

HOLDS RECORD.

Muncie Press: The newspapers of the Star league presented a pretty good photograph of themselves in action against President Taft, Colonel Durbin and other candidates of the Republican party in picturing a wild-eyed individual standing in a pool of filth harling mud at an adversary. The Star league has broken all Indiana records for abusiveness and misrepresentation in this campaign.

KIND OF STAR.

Muncie Press: It is very kind of the Indianapolis Star to give Colonel Durbin any votes in its straw poll for governor.

PREACHES NOT TO SOOTHE SINNERS

blood of their slaughtered thousands still cries out against us.

"We've got men in the church who are extortionists and devour widows' houses and make long prayers for a pretense; men who will lend a poor woman a little sum of money at an enormous rate of interest and then put the screws on and take her property on a first mortgage claim.

"We've got golf-playing Sabbath defilers and worship-forsaken automobile fiends and women going daffy over a lot of things that God hasn't got any use for and where in the name of God are we going to get any power. And I wonder if it isn't because of our cowardice that the world looks upon us with so much disdain. I wonder if the theological seminaries ain't boring the guns too small for the load we've got to fire today. I wonder if some don't fire because if they do they are afraid the congregation will fire them, but I declare to you that nothing will ever save the church and cause her to usher in the kingdom of God but a plain, fearless dealing with sin and a call for people to repent of their sin and do what God wants them to do.

"Yes, I could preach on a more popular subject but I couldn't preach on a more important one. Carnegie can put a public library on every corner in the land and you can fill our cities and our towns with ethical culture clubs and new thought circles and let them meet every day in the week, but unless the people learn to see what sin really is and so come to such an appreciation of its black and hideous character as will cause them to have a Godly sorrow for it, make an honest confession of it and quit before God and man we might just as well sign a quit claim deed to the Devil and be done with it and go out of the business of saving the world.

"And that's just what repentance means. You can get your definition of it from the Shorter Catechism or put it in other phraseology but you can't make it any better, a strong Conviction of sin, a Godly Contrition for it, an honest Confession of it and a permanent Discontinuance of it, and there you've got it—that's Repentance.

"But unless a man discontinues his sin the other things I mentioned don't amount to much. He's got to quit. And so maybe I can best tell you what Repentance is by first telling you what it is not.

"First. In the first place it is not Conviction alone. Of course a man must be convinced: he must have a realizing consciousness of sin. That's why God sent the Holy Spirit into the world that He might convict us of sin and without conviction the Son would have died in vain on the cross.

"Second. And then Contrition alone will never do it. Of course a man's got to be sorry. David said: 'I will be sorry for my sins.' But Paul said there is a Godly sorrow which worketh repentance and there is a sorrow the world which worketh death. So you see there's a mighty big difference between the kind of sorrow that a man can have.

"Some people wait till the dews of death are on their brow and then they can weep alright and tell you how sorry they are. But its not sorrow because they know they have broken the heart of God a million times by their life of sin and rebellion against His, but because they see the gates of hell opening to take their miserable souls in, and they send for a priest or a preacher to pray them into heaven. But nine times out of ten a man who gets a case of sorrow on like that would go right back into the old life when he gets well. If merely being sorry is repentance, then hell is full of penitents, for, 'there is weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth for evermore.'

"Third. And then confession of your sin isn't enough.

"What God wants is a sincere confession and any other kind isn't worth the breath it takes to make it. And a sincere confession will always lead to that kind of repentance that will cause you to put the evil out of your life and keep it out by the help of God.

the brewery and the crimson life-lives in very unsanitary conditions and the oldest son, Raymond, is in advanced stages of consumption. An effort is being made to place him in the State sanatorium for white plague patients so his brothers and sisters will not be infected.

In each case where a boy or girl was in juvenile court, their parents were also before the judge. They were admonished to keep a more careful watch over their children and were warned that the law would handle parents who contribute to the neglect of their children.

The statute in this regard is very strict. It reads in part: "When any child is found to be dependent or neglected, as defined by sections 1 and 2 of this act the parents, parent, person or persons having the care custody or control of such child, or any other person, who is or are responsible for, or who by any act or omission of duty encourages, counsels or contributes to the neglect of such child, or who, by reason of wilful neglect of any duty owing by said parent or parents, person or persons to such child, is or are responsible for its neglect or dependency, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction in any juvenile court, be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred ($500) dollars; to which may be added imprisonment in the county jail or workhouse for a period not exceeding six months."

At least seven young girls in Rushville have been under the eyes of the juvenile court, and their parents had better have a care, the court officials say, else they may be arraigned for contributing to their neglect. Many of the parents in these cases yesterday and today were severely criticized for their attitude toward their children.

The sentence of John Barnett was the result of his alleged relations with the little thirteen-year-old Crawford girl. The father of the girl said he had gone to the mother of the boy and asked that she keep her son away from his house because his daughter was not old enough to keep company. He testified that the boys mother said her son was old enough to do as he pleased.

Mrs. Wolf, mother of the boy, took offense at the prosecutor's statement in open court that the boy's parents were responsible. She did not deny it in open court, but wanted the fact published that she had gone to Crawford first about the boy and girl and he had appeared unconcerned. She said that Crawford had given her son shirts and that he had eaten supper at Crawford's house only last Sunday night, when Crawford should have given her son "the toe of his boot," in her own words.

Juvenile court officials intimate that men may be implicated in the investigation, and that in their case it will not mean a misdemeanor but a crime with a prison sentence attached. Oliver Leisure, who was sentenced to jail, had furnished the Weevie girl with clothes and money to make a defense of the incorrigibility charge. It was brought out in the hearing.

THE YELLOW STAR

(Anderson Bulletin.)
The Indianapolis Star howls about the yellow press. But if any newspapers in the country are more yellow than the Star no one has seen them.
The Star teems daily with the most vulgar allusions to prominent men. Today has this: "The Yellow Dogs, Harlan and Bede, Have Been Called Off." Is that not yellow and vulgar? Both Mr. Harlan and Mr. Bede are reputable men. It refers to the president as that "fat man." That kind of reference to the president of the United States is "feller" and boorish.
The Star is one of the worst examples of "yellow" journalism in this country, and it makes no pretense to tell the truth about its opponents.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess will have a Vitagraph drama "Vultures and Doves" for the first picture tonight. It is a story of a get-rich-quick scheme and is said to be a very interesting picture. "A Dangerous Lesson" is an Edison drama.

The Palace offers the usual two pictures tonight. "The Mountain Daisy" is a clever Nestor drama. The other is an educational subject "The Great Discovery." This one shows the raising of children by incubators.

CARTHAGE MAN DIVORCED.
Newcastle Courier: Glenda Mattix of Knightstown, has been granted a divorce from her husband, Paul Mattix of Carthage by Judge Ed Jackson. She based her complaint on charges of intoxication and non-support.

ALL CRACK BRAINS.
Muncie Press: Scarcely less reprehensible than the crime of the crack brained coward who assaulted Colonel Roosevelt at Milwaukee is the attempt of other crack brained cowards to make political capital of the episode. It will be the fault of these politicians and journalists, themselves during the present campaign the most flagrant offenders against the proprieties and decencies of political discussion, if an episode naturally appealing to the sympathy and the patriotism of the American people, is cheapened by the attempt to give it partisan significance.

How to SELL Things That Are "FOR SALE"

Write your "For Sale" ad SIMPLY stating ever detail about the article that you would want an ad to give if you were anxious to buy something of the kind yourself. Give a little thought to the "selling points" about the article, and put THEM into your ad. Then run the ad MORE THAN ONCE, if that is necessary. It may or may not be.

MABEL HITE
Popular Actress, Wife of Mike Donlin, Dead After Long Illness.

New York, Oct. 23.—Mable Hite, as the actress wife of Michael Donlin, the baseball player, was known to theatre goers, died late yesterday afternoon at her apartments, following a long illness which the physicians and surgeons who attended Mrs. Donlin before she took up Christian Science early in the summer diagnosed as cancer. Miss Hite's stage work during the past three years has been interrupted frequently by illness.

COLONEL IS RESTING UNDER HIS OWN ROOF
Doctors and Nurses Dismissed at His Order.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Smiling and unassisted, Colonel Roosevelt walked from the private car which had brought him from Chicago to the limousine awaiting him at Syosset, and with a waved greeting to the few who attended his unexpected arrival, was borne swiftly across the intervening four miles to Sagamore Hill. Today he lies comfortably in his upstairs room, to which he ascended with only slight assistance. All four of the doctors who escorted him hither and the nurses have been dismissed for the time being at his order. Nothing about the residence of the ex-president indicates that all is not as usual. Apparently his long journey did not distress him at all. As far as his wound is concerned, he says that he suffers no pain, except under pressure.

Although the first idea was to go direct to Oyster Bay, this plan was changed to avoid the risk of a demonstration of welcome from the colonel's fellow townsmen, and his car was put on a siding at Syosset. When he alighted at Syosset the colonel was wearing the army greatcoat which bore the mark of the shot received at Milwaukee a week ago Monday night. With Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Ethel and George Roosevelt, he climbed with a firm step into the closed automobile and drove up to the stoop at Sagamore Hill.

The colonel has been strictly enjoined to see no visitors. This afternoon Drs. Lambert and Terrell are expected to return. Meanwhile he is being attended only by members of the family and his devoted negro body servant, "Jim," who is tireless in his watch.

RACES STOPPED BY MILITIAMEN
State Troops Capture the Track at Porter.
CHARGED WITH BAYONETS

Disregarding Howls of Managers of Gambling Game Which Has Been Going on in Porter County, Major Freyermuth of the Third Infantry Orders His Men to Take Charge of the Entrances.

Porter, Ind., Oct. 23.—When Major Freyermuth of South Bend reached the Porter track with Company F of the Third Infantry, trouble started at once. A. F. Knotts, in charge of the track, defied the militiamen to enter the grounds, then demanded that each should pay admission. Freyermuth, disregarding his protests, ordered his men to take charge of the ticket windows and turnstiles and sent others to meet the trains and advise passengers to return. Freyermuth's vigorous action followed a conference at Michigan City with Attorney General Luman and Brigadier General Garrard, who told him to go the limit.

When the horses were brought out for the first race, Captain Kimball of the South Bend company ordered his men to fix bayonets and the horses with their jockeys were driven back into the stables.

The soldiers pitched their tents within the inclosure. They kept every one from entering and those who were within the inclosure they held. More than fifty women who had arrived in anticipation of seeing the races were not permitted to leave the track. The owners and promoters of the course also are within the inclosure.

A special train from Chicago bearing a large number of spectators arrived just after the state guard appeared. It returned to Chicago with practically all of its passengers.

The race meeting at Porter was to have continued for fifteen days. The Indiana law permits fifteen days of racing each year, but gambling at the track is prohibited, and it was the flagrant violation of this prohibition that caused Governor Marshall to act.

Advertisements of the meet announced purses aggregating $3,000 would be distributed daily. Special rates by railroad and boat had been announced by railroads in Illinois and Indiana. The track is operated by a co-partnership. Among the partners in the enterprise were A. F. Knotts, Lemuel Darrow, Fred Henoch, J. R. Malone, John A. Gavit, Fred S. Carter, Peter Crumppacker and Clarence Bretsch. The old disreputable hand-book crowd of Chicago, with Mont Tennes and Jim O'Leary at its head, is interested in the project and just was getting ready to reap a harvest.

Ben R. Hyman, chief track functionary of the Mineral Springs Jockey club, became tremendously indignant when he was asked the day before to give a newspaper photographer permission to enter the space under the grandstand and take his machine with him.

"What in— is the matter with you fellows?" he stammered. "Are you crazy? Do you realize it merely is through kindness on our part and by the indulgence of the management of these races that you are permitted to enter the grounds at all? If any photographer tries to go down there with his machine he will be thrown out, and you will be thrown out, too."

"Is that a threat, Mr. Hyman?"

"Take it any way you like. It is a fact. I am running this place for a number of fine gentlemen who have invested in the racetrack. We are going to run things to suit ourselves."

The photographer wanted to get a picture of the bookmakers holding huge stacks of banknotes in their hands after one of the races. The last vestige of secrecy in tramping the Indiana state law under foot and making of Mineral Springs a carnival of gambling had vanished. On the road from the train to the track were hawkers selling handicap cards with the winners picked by some racetrack tout. These cards sold for 25 cents. The bookmakers did not try to hide their rolls. They reaped a bountiful harvest.

He Took It to Heart.

A WHITE SLAVE INQUIRY NOW ON
Champion Pugilist On the Rack at Chicago.
WHITE GIRL CHIEF WITNESS

After Much Persuasion Miss Lucille Cameron Consented to Appear Before the Federal Grand Jury and Tell of Her Relations With Jack Johnson, Who Is Under Bond in Chicago on the Charge of Abduction.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—When it summoned Miss Lucille Cameron, the nineteen-year-old white girl from Minneapolis, alleged to have been abducted by the negro, to testify, the federal grand jury took a hand in the affairs of pugilist Jack Johnson. The government hopes through the inquiry to establish the charge that the prize fighter has violated the Mann act by causing the girl, and perhaps other girls, to be brought to Chicago from other states illegally.

After much persuasion on the part of the mother of the girl and other women who have become interested in the case, Miss Cameron took the witness stand after she had been brought to Chicago from Rockford, where she was being held under heavy bond. After she had been in the witness chair for more than an hour she became hysterical and fainted, requiring the services of two physicians and halting the examination.

The girl is said to have given the grand jury considerable information concerning the white slave traffic.

As a result of an investigation it is said the government has gained information that there are several women who make a business of procuring white girls for prosperous negroes.

Denounced by His Race.
Washington, Oct. 23.—At a meeting of several hundred negroes here last night resolutions were adopted declaring Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, a disgrace to his race and an outcast, "now and forevermore."

BATTLE IMMINENT

Mexican Federal Troops Proceed to Center of Diaz Revolt.

Mexico City, Oct. 23.—Eight trains bringing the troops of General Blaguet from the north, arrived here and left at once for Vera Cruz. Four hundred Coahuila volunteers who composed part of the force remained here. General Blaguet has 1,400 men and sixty-three officers, with two cannon and two rapid-fire guns.

In an interview General Blaguet was good-natured and hopeful, but reticent as to his plans.

Government officials announced later that the federals had entered Vera Cruz after a bloody combat, but railroad men say the government troops have not left Tejeria and Santa Fe, the mobilization points, and absolutely authentic private messages say the situation at Vera Cruz is unchanged.

Gunboat Goes Aground.
Norfolk, Va., Oct. 23.—Loaded with provisions and ammunition for the cruisers Des Moines and Tacoma, now in Mexican waters, the gunboat Nashville ran aground near Bush Bluff Lightship and is stuck fast in the mud.

The Deadly Grade Crossing.
Ft. Wayne, Ind., Oct. 23.—Charles Teuch, forty-two years old, was instantly killed at a grade crossing when he was struck by an east-bound traction car on the Ft. Wayne and Northern Indiana line.

CONSERVATION OF GAME BIRDS
Prairie Chickens Are Thriving in Indiana.
EFFECT OF "CLOSED" LAW

Act of 1909 Prohibiting the Killing of Prairie Chickens For a Period of Six Years Has Resulted in Saving a Once Numberless Flock From Utter Extinction, and the Prairie Lands Are Rapidly Becoming Restocked.

Indianapolis, Oct. 23.—George W. Miles, commissioner of fisheries and game, has announced, following a series of investigations his deputies have been making, that a conservative estimate of the number of prairie chickens now in Indiana is 100,000. The counties about the Kankakee basin hold the majority of the game birds. In 1900 the legislature passed a bill prohibiting the shooting of prairie chickens at any time and the state department immediately took up the work of rebuilding the shattered numbers of the birds throughout the state. The law extends for six years and in 1914, Mr. Miles said, it is probable the legislature will be asked to open a very short season for the chicken hunters, if any at all.

The farmers in the northern counties have been co-operating with the state department in its attempts to prevent the extermination of the birds. Mr. Miles said. This year deputies on motorcycles have patrolled the counties the birds haunt and have run down every hunter found illegally shooting the game.

Few persons in the state realize that such a "harvest" of the birds has been nurtured in the northern counties, the state official said. Mr. Miles said the plans of the state department contemplate allowing a very short open season on the birds at the expiration of the "closed" law. A small bag limit and the shutting out of the birds from markets of the state will aid in keeping them here in large numbers. Mr. Miles said. Because the same principles have been followed with regard to the quail in Indiana, those birds are slowly increasing in numbers, the commissioner said.

WITNESSES CALLED

Committee Summons Beveridge and Several Others to Washington.

Indianapolis, Oct. 23.—Albert J. Beveridge, John F. Hayes, his former private secretary; L. G. Rothschild and Larz Whitcomb of this city, and Henry B. Pettit of Wabash, have been summoned to Washington to testify before the senate campaign contribution investigating committee. The men called were directed to bring with them all books, papers and documents relating to the handling of Republican campaign money in Indiana in the campaigns of 1904 and 1908, and any information they may possess regarding expenditures in behalf of any candidate for office in the two campaigns.

It is understood that the senate committee wishes to inquire into the Beveridge campaign fund of 1904. George W. Perkins testified before the committee that Beveridge returned to him $10,000 which he sent the former senator for use in his campaign that year.

When Perkins was pressed by the committee to learn how much more, if any, than $10,000 he had sent to Beveridge, the only answer the committee could get was that he did not remember. The committee wishes to know whether a larger amount was sent and whether a part of it was used in the Beveridge campaign.

Illegal Registration Charged.
Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 23.—Deputy sheriffs have started out with bench warrants for the arrest of forty persons who were indicted by the Vigo county grand jury for alleged illegal registration. The indictments were returned against "voters" who registered from Precinct D of the Sixth ward, but it is not believed many will be found, as they registered under assumed names.

Wouldn't Trust the Cars.
Ft. Wayne, Ind., Oct. 23.—Mrs. Margaret Carroll, age eighty-one, who died here yesterday, had never ridden on a railway. She was born in Ireland, came to America when an infant and made the trip from the seaboard to Ft. Wayne by boat and overland wagon seventy-seven years ago. Mrs. Carroll had always refused to travel even for a short distance on a train.

Found Dead in Vacant House.
Milan, Ind., Oct. 23.—The body of a man was found in a vacant house near this place. The coroner pronounced death due to natural causes. The man was about thirty-five years old, of light complexion and about five feet ten inches in height. The only mark about the clothing was H. H. O. on his linen.

Auto Falls into Creek.
Attica, Ind., Oct. 23.—Dashing along the highway at forty miles an hour an automobile containing Frank Judy, aged twenty-two, of West Lebanon, and a boy friend, ran off the bridge a half mile west of this city and dropped into the creek. Judy suffered injuries that are expected to prove fatal.

PROSPECTS FOR LEAGUE BRIGHT

Rushville Team Has Chance to Land

Berth in State Association

Next Year.

DAL WILLIAMS HERE TODAY

In Conference With Manager Maibough Concerning Proposition—

Will Form New Circuit.

Dal Williams of Newcastle, manager of the Maxwell ball team was here this morning in conference with F. A. Maibough, manager of the local team, in regards to placing Rushville in the Indiana State league next year. The proposition met with favor here and the chances are that when the base ball curtain is rung up next spring Rushville will be found in the list of cities comprising the circuit.

The State league plays only Sunday ball and the season just ended was very successful. The proposed changes in the circuit are due to an effort to secure cities which are closer together and form a more compact league. Under the proposal Kokomo, Elwood and one of the traveling teams will be dropped. The objection to Kokomo and Elwood is that the towns are too far distant for the rest of the teams.

The league as outlined by Dal Williams would include six clubs namely, Newcastle, Muncie, Richmond, Connersville, Rushville and one traveling team. These six clubs are by no means a certainty but as a working basis, Williams is figuring on them. The other cities will be visited and then a meeting called to perfect an organization. The towns named would make a fine circuit and with a classy article of ball the league could be made a great "little" affair.

Manager Maibough told Williams the league looked good to him, and to go ahead with the organization. Rushville has never been represented in a league and in order to make it go, support will have to be given the movement. That this city will support a ball team was clearly demonstrated this year. After the sport had been dead for four or five years it was revived and a winning team put in the field. For this reason it is believed the league would pay in this city.

SIXTY-THREE YOUNG MEN AT NOON LUNCH

E. C. Miller of Biederwolf Party
Talk on "Life's Voyage" Pointing Out Good Morals.

KINGS DAUGHTERS THANKED

Sixty-three young business men were entertained at the noon luncheon, held today in connection with the Biederwolf tabernacle meetings over Conroy's restaurant. The Kings Daughters of the United Presbyterian church served a fine meal, which could hardly be termed a lunch because of its proportions. The young men extended a vote of thanks to the young women.

E. C. Miller, of the tabernacle company, made a terse, thirty-minute talk on "Life's Voyage." He told a story of a near shipwreck at sea, with the moral that one should never start on a voyage without a chart and compass. So it is in the voyage of life, he declared, a young man should never set out without a chart and compass, the word of Jesus Christ. He urged young men not to sin, as he pointed out that in so doing they could command better positions, which they should want to do as this is the age of the young man. He closed his interesting talk with the story of President McKinley's celebrated message, "Tell mother I'll be there," when she had summoned him to her bedside, as an example of what a son's love for his mother should be. James Henton sang three songs and was applauded.

but this was the fault of inspectors, not of the election commission.

This year a special effort is to be made to have every inspector hurry to the circuit court room with his return as soon as the count has been completed and signed. This will not only insure information as to the result of the election at the earliest possible moment but will be in strict conformity to the law. No inspector has a right to take the returns home with him and wait until the next day to report to the board of canvassers. His duty is to take the returns to the court house as soon as the count is completed and signed.

The three commissioners will meet on or about October 25 to arrange the county ballot and prepare for its printing. As Clerk Norris understands Monday, October 21, was the last day on which certificates of nominations can be filed.

The ballots and other supplies will be delivered to the inspectors on Saturday, November 2. All the supplies will be in the county clerk's office, and inspectors are required to call there for them. Shortly before the election the commissioners expect to issue a statement through the newspapers setting out and detailed information as to the manner in which election supplies will be distributed and giving information as to how returns should be made. In addition to this, the commission hopes to arrange for a meeting with all the inspectors in the county on the Saturday preceding the election. At this meeting specific instructions touching their duties will be given the inspectors. In this way, it is thought, every point in the election law will be made perfectly clear to the inspectors and a prompt report of the result in every precinct insured.

POTATO CROP IS ABOUT HARVESTED

Yield and Quality, Taken Whole
County Over, Is Said to be
Best in Years.

PUMPKINS ARE PLENTIFUL

The potato crop in this county is about harvested. The yield and quality is the best in twelve years. Some yielded at the rate of two hundred bushels an acre. Corn husking is early on account of the light husks some ears being almost bare. Some farmers will commence cribbing within a few days. Some fields will yield one hundred bushels an acre, but the average will be forty to ninety bushels. Although several frosts have fallen, the tomato crop remains unharmed and the fruits continue to ripen. Not for years has there been a better crop of pumpkins in Rush county. Kiefer pears are about the only fruit that is plentiful.
